THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

BOSTON, MONDAY, MARCH 24, 1975

AN INTERNATIONAL DAILY NEWSPAPER

VOL 67, NO. 82
TWO SECTIONS INTERNATIONAL EDITION 6P 15E ELSEWHERE

Renewed tension, Geneva confrontation

After Kissinger's Mideast failure

Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

Beirut, Lebanon

The breakdown of U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Mideast peace mission raises several stark possibilities for the immediate fu-

1. President Sadat of Egypt has announced through Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy that he wants rapid reconvening of the Geneva peace conference on the Middle East

2. Tension is likely to rise sharply on the Arab-Israel cease-fire lines. The mandate of the UN peace force in Sinai expires in about one month, that in Syria in two. The United States is likely to take the lead in the United Nations, diplomats here believe, in pressing for their renewal.

Alerts sounded

There are already reports from both sides of a heightened state of alert in both the Israeli and Arab armies. As Dr. Kissinger's plane flew. homeward, Palestine guerrillas and the Lebanese Army reported repulsing an Israeli patrol which crossed. into Lebanon in the first incident of its kind since the fighting at the ruined village of Kfar Shouba in early Janu-

3. Observers in the Arab world believe Dr. Kissinger's piecemeal approach to peace has finished - at least for now. Newsmen at Aswan quoted Egyptian Foreign Minister Fahmy as saying "step-by-step diplo-macy has ended." The Soviet role in any new round of diplomacy is likely

4. Serious trouble may lie ahead for President Sadat in Egypt, and for Arab moderates in Egypt and elsewhere who supported him and approved of the Kissinger mission. Mr. Sadat had put much hope and a high degree of trust in Dr. Kissinger's success. For this, he has been bitterly attacked by the same Arab critics now expressing satisfaction at Dr. Kissinger's failure.

Even with the large-scale Western and Arab investment anticipated, some of which may now be withheld, Egypt faces an economic situation bordering on the desperate.

The final days of the Kissinger mission saw a renewal of workers' riots and demonstrations protesting the government's inability to cope with hunger, poverty, and poor distribution of available commodities and transport facilities.

As for the effect of the failure of the Kissinger mission on the Palestintans, Nabil al-Shath, a top aide of Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) chairman Yasser Arafat, said it helped the PLO. It removed the danger to Arab unity that might have arisen from a separate Egypt-Israel

Mr. Shath added that President Sadat's image among the Palestinians has improved and Palestinian participation in the Geneva peace conference must now get special consideration. *Please turn to Page 4

Palestine refugees—still waiting for a home

U.S. foreign policy in triple trouble

By Dana Adams Schmidt Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

Washington

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger returned from the Middle East to face three critical challenges that could lead to reappraisals of U.S. foreign policy. o The Mideast:

The outlook is that the U.S., following collapse of Dr. Kissinger's interim-settlement mission to Israel and Egypt, will have to accommodate further negotiation of all Arab-Israeli issues in the forum of the Geneva Conference, where it must share the Dr. Kissinger has predicted that such a conference will end in stalemate.

· Southeast Asia:

The North Vietnamese are still pressing forward and threatening to cut South Vietnam in two. Ron Nessen, the President's press secretary, said Sunday there will have to be a 're-evaluation" of American policies if South Vietnam and Cambodia fall to the Communists and Thailand and the Philippines change their attitude toward-Washington.

flanks:

The future of American bases in Turkey and Greece hangs in the balance as the two countries agonize over Cyprus. The Turks are angry over U.S suspension of military aid, the Greeks because they feel the U.S. let them down

To the west, Portugal, after half a century of right-wing dictatorial rule, seems on the verge of lurching into a Communist dictatorship. The U.S. stands to lose its base in the Azores, important as a staging post for re-supplying Israel, should a Middle East war recur; the Soviet Union stands to gain facilities on the island Secretary of State Kissinger, who was to report to the President Sunday *Please turn to Page 4

Vietnam map redrawn, day by day

By Daniel Southerland Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor.

Day by day, the map of Vietnam is being redrawn.

The massive retreat ordered over the past week by President Nguyen Van Trieu has occurred with such rapidity-mat some Vietnamese appear to be too stunned to believe what is happening.

And the sudden territorial changes that have resulted seem to dwarf. The withdrawal of government anything which has happened to Viet. Troops from the province capital of nam since the Geneva Accords were: Quang Duc, located about 100 miles

Communist-controlled corridor grows from DMZ to within 50 miles of Saigon

The latest positions to be abandoned by the Saigon government in the Central Highlands now give the of French colonial rule, by Ho Chi

Communists uncontested control over a huge corridor leading from North Vietnam to within 50 miles of Salgon.

signed in 1954 formalizing the defeat north of Saigon, removed one last stretches without interruption all the way from the demiliatrized zone to Tay Ninh Province just northwest of Government officials claimed that Quang Duc fell under heavy attack, but other sources said the withdrawal was carried out before the North Vietnamese had a chance to launch a major attack.

Losses increase

Quang Duc had long been considered virtually indefensible. Its abandonment brought to eight the number of provinces lost to the Communists since January. South Vietnam has a total of 44 provinces.

Some people here are recalling the Tet offensive of 1968 when local Communist-led forces fought their way into cities across the country. Those attacks had a tramendous shock effect, but they were eventually repulsed - owing in large part to American firepower, from the air and on the ground.

In the present case, there seems to be a significant difference. Although supplied with considerable amounts of U.S. weapons and other military aid, there is little chance that President Thieu's forces will be able to recover any of the territory now being ceded to the Communists.

★Please turn to Page 4

Moscow basks in 'successes'

By Elizabeth Pond Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

The Soviet press is backing modestly in a series of foreignpolicy developments favorable to

There is no crowing in the press about the strengthening of the Communist-backed leftist leadership of Portugal, Communist advances in Indo-China, the breakdown of Secretary of State Henry A. Klasinger's Mideast peace negotiations, and the drift toward a grand European summit this summer.

But the developments are noted with tacit satisfaction.

On Sunday, for example, the Communist Party paper Pravda quoted the Portuguese Ambassador to the Soviet Union as praising the course of closer Soviet-Pertuguese relations in the Lisbon press.

Pravda also flayed Western critics who see a threat to democracy from the Portuguese Communists. It bailed the Communist Party as a major force against any return to "fascism." It also defended recent Portuguese banning of three political parties, Army purges, and nationalization of banks and insurance companies as necessary measures against "the enemies of revolution." ★Please turn to Page 2

Vietnam refugees-still fleeing their homes

Saigon hopes to move refugee hordes by sea and that they are among a total of

By a staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

De Nang, Vietnam Refugees created by the current shift of forces in South Vietnam will far outnumber those from any previous year's fighting, according to the leading Saigon government official concerned with refugees.

Phan Quang Dan, Deputy Prime Minister in charge of social welfare and land development, said he is proposing that ships be used to move farther south most of the refugees now pouring into this coastal city.

Dr. Dan estimates that 300,000 refugees have already reached Da Nang half-a-million refugees on the move in this northernmost region of Saigon's diminishing territory.

We have no choice'

"We are going to try to move all half a million out of the region," said Dr. Dan in an interview. "We have no

"There is no land and no food for them, and there is going to be lots of fighting in this area," he said. "The authorities here must concentrate on security, but they can't do that if there are many refugees in the area."

Congress leans to tax cuts for lower incomes

By Harry B. Ellis Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

Washington The massive tax-cut bill that almost certainly will become law in the United States this week clearly will be weighted to help low- and middleincome Americans. Although details at this writing are mexact, upper-income families will receive only minimal tax rebates and reductions.

At the same time, the compromise bill to be fashioned by the House and Senate conferees may contain several elements that President Ford does not

The House bill calls for a $17.1 billion tax cut; the Senate figure is-$29.3 billion. The President had proposed $16 billion.

Signature expected

Most observers believe the President, despite misgivings, will sign the bill, to give the sinking U.S. economy an infusion of fresh consumer spend-★Please turn to Page 3

Where to look

News-briefly Editorials Education

10 Sports Home Forum

Electric auto—answer to gasoline pinch? Florida factory goes into mass production

By John Dillin Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

Sebring, Fla. Ten months after their debut, morethan 700 Americans are whizzing about in the nation's first mass-produced electric autos. Six CitiCars a day roll off the assembly line here at Sebring-Vanguard, Inc., whose officers predict output of 1,500 electric cars in 1975.

CitiCar won't win any road races or any beauty contests. Its vital statistics would make a car buff blush: top speed, 38 miles an hour; horsepower, 31/4; range, 50 miles or

But CitiCar investors are hopeful their ugly duckling will bloom into a profitmaking beauty as a lightweight, short-range "people mover" that would make an ideal second car for millions of energy-short Americans.

Just one indicator

And the electric-car factory here is just one indication of rising U.S. interest in electric vehicles.

Elsewhere, designers are turning their attention to electric trucks, buses, and Jeeps. And research is moving ahead on advanced batteries that eventually will bring increased power and range, says Edward A. Campbell, executive secretary of the Electric Vehicle Council in New York

Battery car-no racer but still a winner?

Ohio firm, has manufactured about 120 medium-sized vans. They are being used on a test basis by florists, the U.S. Postal Service. newspapers, and others who need short-range delivery service. Various electric power companies are helping to supervise the test program. Buses being tested

Battronic also has produced a number of small electric buses.

Otis Elevator Company's Special Vehicle Division has come up with two test buses, Mr. Campbell says. One is a 20-passenger model, the other about twice that size. Rochester, N.Y., and Long Beach, Calif., are among the cities testing the buses. AM General, a division of American

Battronic Truck Corporation, an Motors Corporation, began production this month under a $2-million contract to build 350 electric Jeeps for Abroad, electric vehicles are moving even faster than in the United States, especially in Great Britain where some 50,000 electric vans are operating, Mr. Campbell reports. Here at Sebring, there is a realiza-vehicles is a pioneering venture and a risky one. Spurred by the energy crisis, Sebring-Vanguard has established about 80 dealerships, mostly in the southeastern U.S. Thirty-three of these tion, however, that producing electric have opened since Jan. 1. *Please turn to Page 3

Plan for Boston schools: first reaction mixed

By Kristen Kelch and Chris Kenrick Staff writers of

The Christian Science Monitor

A proposal for citywide desegregation of Boston's public schools, emphasizing educational reform as much as racial balance, has met with mixed reaction here.

Many school and community leaders over the weekend lauded the educational aspects of the plan, but some expressed doubt that it is workable with only the minimal amount of busing it mandates. Anti-busing leaders reiterated their opposition to any plan that involves school assignments outside a student's neighborhood - as this one does - and said that even limited busing would be opposed. The plan, presented by four court-appointed "masters," is designed to provide a final remedy to U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity's finding of discrimination against Boston's minority schoolchildren as well as to meet some demands of those citizens opposed to busing to achieve racial

Less busing needed

Its chief authors - two courtappointed experts - say their plan will desegregate more schools yet require significantly less busing than the limited desegregation process implemented in Boston last Septem-

The yehement opposition of antibusing groups, especially in South Boston, to that initial desegregation plan - which involved the compulsory busing of 18,000 pupils resulted in violent outbreaks last fall and the posting of large contingents of police at certain schools.

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White said he had not had time to assess the new plan, but that he felt it had "many elements that are attractive and will hopefully appeal to the community at

Thomas I. Atkins, president of the Boston chapter of the NAACP, said he liked the community innovations of the plan, but he has "problems" with the extent to which certain areas of the city are not involved.

Loss of power noted

"I haven't had much time to digest the report," said Boston School Committee chairman John J. McDonough. "but it seems to take considerable power away from the School Committee. It means that the people who elected us will have less control over school policies."

Beginning Tuesday, the plan will be the subject of oral arguments by attorneys for the seven parties in the desegregation case. Following that, the masters are expected to modify the plan before submitting it to Judge Garrity. A final desegregation order is expected from the judge by mid-April.

*Please turn to Page 4

A changed oil-depletion lobby

Independents replace major firms in word fight to save tax break

By Peter C. Stuart Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

Washington The congressional fight over the petroleum industry's richest tax break is uncorking a gusher of lobbying activity - with a new look.

The dimensions loom as massive as in previous battles over the $2 billiona-year oil-depletion allowance: well over 200 lobbyists, on both sides of the issue, descending on Capitol Hill.

But both the persuaders and their targets are significantly different this

• The campaign to save the tax write-off is being carried by smaller independent oil producers instead of the big international oil companies. "We've had almost no contact with the majors," reports an aide of Sen. Ernest F. Hollings (D) of South Carolina, co-leader of anti-depletion senators. "They really don't care any

• The independents - who care very much - are marshaling their efforts squarely against the tradi-tional core of congressional resistance: liberal, reform-minded Senate Democrats.

Much at stake has wheels

with incredible ease!

KLEEN-AIR

9DORS

ME YEN

TE BOOKLESS #

WILL ES

CHRISTMAS GIFT
Pull-Up Folding Table
Handsome table places tray within
"close-in" reach with any chair for comfortable eating, writing or typing. Check the legs! They side under your chair. No need to bend forward or sit on edge of your chair. Walnut finish top resists heat & stains. Cleans with damp cloth. Tubular steel legs in black satin finish; Folds flat for easy storage. Table: 24" high; Top: 15" by 24". Malled to you $24.95 including postage. Send check or M.O. to: Village Furniture, P.O. Box 583, Vashon, WA 98070.

* *

SEEK OUT MONITOR ADVERTISERS

nervalent new "Model 26" Gorden Way Cart e Just at the you could nearly e 5 trade canal e 200 lies, of rocks or soil is Freywood e 200 lies, of rocks or soil is Freywood e 200 lies, of rocks or soil is Freywood e 200 lies, of rocks or soil is 1 steps the secret's in the extra-large 26" presentation and the secret's in the extra-large 26" presentation with boil isoentings, which make a 5cml is fluiding heavy leady or breams—area gover recogh, orbity greated or through soft sentill. This new furnishments of cart in the calmination of 20 years of cart research, it has the largest rapids within of any out or wheelihortow residents for home or furnishments. Calmin Cartillo Corry 10 times the land of a recently wheel.

"I've never seen the likes, and kind of this lobbying by the independent oil

This amazing cart

BY MAIL:

practically self-propelled!

GARDEN WAY RESEARCH

Dept. 50163 Charlotte, Vermont 95445

WESTWARD'S

KLEEN-AIR

STOPS ALL ODORS FOR ONE YEAR!

POSTAGE PREPAID

CALIF. RESIDENTS, ADD SALES TAX

Kleen-Air stops all odors from cooking, smoking, in retrigerator, ciothes closets, bettrooms, pet hours. Kleen-Air itself is odoriess — yet keeps air fresh 24 hours a day for CNE PULL YEAR. Also recommended for closed in kennets, pet supply stores, fish markets, etc. 2's more economical and longer lasting than wick or spray deodorants.

Dealer inquiries invited.

edelweiss

bell earrings

Hear the sound of Tyrolean cow bells echo as you move. The noble enamelled in blue and white on these ministure sterling silver belts.

Selected from the many personal gifts in our newest catalog. "6" long. Order pierced or screw-type.

from Austria

shopping international

912 shopping international bidg

$11.95 ppd.

its flower is delicately hand-

WESTWARD PRODUCTS COMPANY

KLEEN-AIR DIVISION

P.O. BOX 1032 - STUDIO CITY, CA. 91604

producers," says one of their chief opponents, Jack Moskowitz, principal lobbyist against the allowance for Common Cause, the public-interest pressure group.

The estimated 10,000 independents enter the fray with much at stake drilling nearly 80 percent of all American oil wells. But they also possess built-in political clout - doing business in more than half the states (28), giving them leverage on 56 of the 100 votes in the Senate.

Thus when the Senate took up the House of Representatives bill repealing the 49-year-old tax break (allowing oil and gas firms to deduct from taxes 22 percent of their gross income), the independent Petroleum Association of America dispatched more than 200 members from across the nation to Capitol Hill.

'Liberal lobbyists'

To shore up their connections with skeptical liberals and reformers, they hired special lobbyists with liberal credentials, such as former Lyndon Johnson presidential counsel Harry McPhearson and former liberal fundraiser Maurice Rosenblatt.

The oil industry's arguments are backed by generous campaign contributions. Oilmen have given more than $350,000 in the past 18 months to members of the Senate Finance Committee which oversees the oil depletion allowance, according to Common Cause, most of the money from independent producers.

The leading recipient at $134,954, Sen. Lloyd M. Bentson (D) of Texas, got Independent Petroleum Association (IPA), help on what one of its lobbyists calls "the technical language" of an amendment successfully (although only temporarily) restoring the depiction allowance to independents producing less than 3,000 barrels a day. That covers most association members.

This concession ultimately was superceded by a slightly less sweeping version - lowering the limit to 2,000 barrels a day but still covering most independents - proposed by Sen. Dewey F. Bartiett (R) of Oklahoma, an IPA member and former independent oil producer.

On both relief measures for the independents - still subject to negotiation with the House - the new-style lobbying seems to have paid off. The independents won support from such non-oil-state Democratic liberal senators as Philip A. Hart of Michigan and Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii.

"Several senators who haven't understood depletion in the past," explains successful IPA lobbyist Ron Frank, "through our efforts . . . have been impressed with good. sound arguments."

Concedes a Common Cause lobbyist: "We're up against a different breed, difficult to fight."

For Cleansing and Beautifying The Skin

The Oriental Bath Mitten is testioned from a natural vicegrown vegetable. The sponge is an important sid in cleanaing and beautifying the sidn. Many beauty experts recommend its natural strainter fore for the sidn.

IN THE BOSTON AREA AVAILABLE AT HIGHLAND PHARMACY, NEWTON PRIDENTIAL CENTER PHARMACY, BOSTON CENTER PLAZA, BOSTON RIZ CARLTON, BOSTON COLONEAL DRUGS, CAMBRIDGE EATON THE DRUGGIST, SALEM

LINDY INTERNATIONAL INC.

P.O. Box 1041, Framingham, MA 01701 Sand with $3.00 ea. check or money order plus 255 handling & postage. In Mess. edd 3% miles tou.

How thousands SLEEP BETTER

For over 40 years, SLEEP SHADE — with its unique design - has provided the complete darkness desired for sound sleep. Over 3 mil-lion have been sold be-cause SLEEP SHADE pro-

SLEEP SHADE

Regusir Sette and Saleon $4.90

828 Mission St. Dept. CD, P.O. Box 965 San Francisco, CA 94161

HOSE NOZZLE

50% More power. Ideal for patio, suto, boat, driveway and garden. Fingertip control for solid jet, heavy spray or pin point. Made of stainless and solid brass. Lifetime leak-

PRAIRIE RECIPES, BOX 605

SKOKIE, ILLINOIS 60076

Please send free brochure of

Dekux Ali Setin $5.00

-day or night

We GROW

OUR OWN

These advertisers have agreed to fill orders within 21 days.

ORANGE GROVES

Citrus Gift Packs • Shipped from Florida

unless otherwise specified. Satisfaction is guaranteed on a money-back basis, plus postage one way.

SHIPPERS

SINCE 1927

P.O. Bex 22800

MELL

AND THE

beauty

Our Seagull Is

Very Low Priced!

MADE TO SELL FOR $12.50

STERLING

SEAGULL

7.95 ples 40¢ postage and

PENDANT

farnish-rree mounts thain and can also be forn as a pin. A won-rful gift for a special

WICKFORD GIFT GALLERIES

PETS -- CHILDREN -- PEOPLE

Don't cry over spift milk, or juice, or provided the property of the provided the pr

Want to know how you can clean those grimy arm rests or an entire sofs, or that popsicle off the car sest?

CLEANMARK CORP.

5 Evergreen Pky. Westport, CT 06680

With our reply you will receive 1 miraculous polishing cloth, value $1.25, absolutely FREE.

Patronize Monitor Advertisers

For full details send 90¢ to

SILVER

sponge

a beautu seaet used by oriental womenfor centuries

leens the skin young

British Labour splits on Europe

By Takashi Oka Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

Deep divisions over membership in the European Common Market have boiled to the surface in Britain's Labour Party.

As Prime Minister Harold Wilson appealed for "adult, mature, comradely, and friendly" debate, some commentators predicted the party could split up, as it did once before in the wake of the great depression of the early 1930s.

Mr. Wilson made his first unequivocal plea for Britain to remain in the European Community in a speech to the Scottish wing of the Labour Party in Aberdeen March 22. While Britain had not gotten all it wanted in its renegotiations with its eight community partners, Mr. Wilson said, "The outcome is good for Britain, good for Europe, good for the Commonwealth, good for the developing world, and good for the whole world."

Despite his speech, the Scottish Labour Party rejected continued membership in the Common Market by 346,000 votes to 280,000.

Party restraints dropped

Mr. Wilson has given his Cabinet colleagues freedom to campaign for or against membership in the national referendum which will be held in June. But he warned his ministers not to get so involved in the campaign as to neglect "for one minute the principal duty of this administration, to get Britain out of the crisis we were elected to resolve."

The Labour Party's 29-man national executive committee, representing trade unions and the party's organizations at constituency level, is to meet in London March 26. There are predictions that the committee will come out 19 to 10 against Common Market membership.

Anti-marketeers in the parlie mentary Labour Party have already lined up 132 members of Parliament, nearly half of the party's strength in the House of Commons. Only in the Cabinet do pro-marketeers hold a clear majority of 16 to 7.

Lines blurred on issue

The battle is not merely between the right and left wings. Employment Secretary Michael Foot, a left-winger, opposes Common Market membership, but so does Peter Shore, a right-winger who is Trade Secretary.

The left wing, however, has been generally the most virulent in its attacks; Ian Mikardo, a prominent left-winger, has accused Mr. Wilson of leading a "motley, multicolored army" of Tories, industrialists, and bankers in favor of the European Community.

These sharp disagreements are being publicized at a time when the Labour Party is divided over the economy as well. Unemployment has topped the 800,000 mark, and many left-wingers wish the government to take steps to reflate.

Tight budget expected

But with inflation running at an annual rate of nearly 20 percent, Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey is likely to come out with a stringent new budget after the Easter recess. The unions have not shown themselves very sympathetic to the chancellor's appeal to heed the social contract (a voluntary undertaking on the part of the unions to hold down wage demands).

VOCABULARY RECORDS

It's Easy and Fun to Listen and Learn! Children and adults allike can add thousands of new words to their working vocabularies with this outstanding Vocabulary Study Course! Authored by famous Dr. Bergen Evens, professor of English at Northwesters U.; author, lecturer and TV personality, one sizes of 5 LP records marraded by Robert Breen and 5 study guides. A better wocahulary makes it easier to learn, being you reacheder, write and talk better ... yas, even think better because we think in words! Used by hundreds of elacators as well at husinesses to Improve affectiveness well at husinesses to Improve affectiveness of sales

TRY IT FREE FOR 10 DAYS: Don't send Money . . . Just Mail Coupon Complete Course will be Mailed Postage Pro

The Watergate recordings

Haldeman: 99.9% of tapes still to be heard

By Arthur Unger Television critic of The Christian Science Monitor

Although former Nixon aide H. R. Haldeman believes that the Watergate tapes should have been destroyed before anybody knew they existed, he also believes they should 'absolutely not' be destroyed now.

In the first segment of a two-part Mike Wallace-Haldeman interview, aired Sunday on CBS television, Mr. Haldeman said:

"We have now heard one-tenth of 1 percent of the tapes, and they are pretty bad. I would like to have the other 99.9 percent available. . . . There are areas in those tapes that would be enormously valuable to the American people . . . to know the great things Richard Nixon did, the great, strong, incisive, and decisive leader that he was 90 percent of the

Mr. Haldeman said he was wrong to have recommended against destroy. ing the tapes before they were re-

Not close

Mr. Haldeman denies that he was a worshipper of Mr Nixon, "On a nonbusiness basis I was not close to Richard Nixon: I do not love Richard Nixon I have enormous respect for Richard Nixon . . . I did not and do not worship him. . . .

He describes his former boss as "one of the least understood, most complex, most confusing men who has ever sat in the White House. He is weird in the sense of being inexplicable, strange, hard to understand . . . [he had] the sense of his having to be better in order to get credit for being good - his having to not have any flaws because of the magnification of what flaws there were or become evident.

Private indulgence

"His profanity was indulged in private as were other indulgences. He wore glasses in private and he didn't in pulbic . . . but I think that was an absurd kind of vanity."

Mr. Wallace evoked from Mr. Haldeman the statement: "I readily confess to a serious failure in judgment as regards Watergate and to the woeful lack of perception as the case developed. . . . I have to say that I and I think this applies to all the rest of the top people at the White House and to the President himself, totally failed to perceive Watergate as a matter of bigger potential danger or a major presidential concern."

Congress overrules Ford on taxes, Indo-China

Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

Washington Congress has quietly vetoed both President Ford's domestic economic program and his foreign assistance program in Southeast Asia, and has brought a good deal of the effective power in running the United States Government back to Capitol Hill. On the affirmative side, Congress is expected to have its big tax decrease bill ready by President Ford's April 1

On the negative side, it has dug in its heels, despite executive pleas and criticism, and has severely limited, or shut off, further military aid to Cambodia and South Vietnam. Operation of the unique system of Constitution in the 1780's now is in full force in Washington. Normally congressional dominance follows wars, and it is often accompanied by bitterness and stalemate.

separation of powers built into the Discussions move on

This may be avoided in 1975 unless the brand new issue, now suddenly appearing with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's unsuccessful mission in the Middle East, precipitates a divisive Israeli-Arab issue into the White House-Congress debate.

Presumably lack of success of the Kissinger Israeli-Arab mission means that the discussions now go to Geneva, under UN auspices, with potential for a major Soviet-United States confrontation.

What 535 members of Congress will do under these circumstances nobody can guess. Congressmen show marked sympathy for supporting larael's territorial integrity. On the other hand they recoil from further external war adventures, after Viet-

If Israel were being defeated by the Arabs, only 27 percent of Americans would favor direct U.S. military intervention according to a poll conducted last December by the Louis Harris organization, just released by the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations.

Larger stimulus approved

On the economic front the overwhelmingly Democratic Congress approves a larger recovery stimulus than President Ford, accepts a deeper federal deficit, rejects bisgoal of cutting oil imports by a million barrels a day and, simultaneously, orders the august Federal Reserve Board to make twice annual reports on its policy objectives.

Both White House and Congress favor the beginning of the so-called 'negative income tax."

If enacted, this would be an historic and revolutionary development. It means that working families too poor to pay income tax would receive back from the government certain cash benefits in the nature of a guaranteed income. Proposals of this sort have been aired for 10 years. Former President Richard M. Nixon incorporated a variant in his Family Assistance Program, which he later dropped. In the pending tax bill congressmen are calling it an "earned income credit." Pending Senate and House versions differ; Mr. Ford has indicated he favors it in some form. The radical proposal is being enacted almost unnoticed.

*Moscow basks in 'successes'

Continued from Page 1

Earlier this month Prayda saw the attempted right-wing coup that preceded the strengthening of the Portuguese Left as an "imperialist plot" similar to recent "right-wing rebellions" in Peru and Greece.

The third Portuguese minister to visit the Soviet Union since the armed forces coup a year ago arrived in Moscow over the weekend. The Labor Minister, Capt. Jose de Costa Martins, is regarded as a moderate in the ruling Miltary Revolutionary Council Soviet reaction to military advances by the insurgents in Vietnam and Cambodia has been to align the Kremlin more closely with the Cambodian forces nominally led by Prince Norodom Sihanouk. Sunday's Pravda declared a week of solidarity with the Cambodian people and ran an anniversary message to Prince Sibanouk from Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny on the front page.

A long article by commentator Yuri Zhukov called the present Cambodian Government "a bankrupt regime," and "a puppet regime," asserted than Prince Sinanouk's United National Front controls 97 percent of Cambodian territory, and pledged Moscow's "active support" of the Front.

In the past, Moscow has held the United National Front at arm's length because of Prince Sibanouk's ties with Peking. Both the United National Front and the Phnom Penh government have diplomatic representation in Moscow.

The breakdown of Dr. Kissinger's peace negotiations in the Mideast happened too recently for official Soviet comment to have reached the press at this writing. Observers, however, now regard as probable a resumption of the Geneva peace talks urged by the Kremlin, with an increase in the Soviet voice in the Mideast.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR An International Daily Newspaper FOURIDED IN 1908 BY MARY BAKER EDOY

BOARD OF TRUSTEES MANAGING EDITOR CIRCULATION DIRECTOR Kennett D. Summer ADVERTISMS DIFFECTOR Alexander H. Swen ADV. BUSINESS MANAGER Warren D. STAWING RETAL ADV. MANAGER Durek J. Holmes Earl W. Foeli CHEF EDITORIAL WRITER Charlotte Salboueki OVERSEAS NEWS EDITOR Geoffrey Godsell MERICAN NEWS EDITOR DEAD K. WIES

EDITOR SMERITUS Erwin D. Canhum

sentative in your community we request.

Published daily except Saturday, Sunday and Holidays.
Sacond-chair postage paid at Boston, Massachuset
U.S.A., and at ediditional realing offices.

SUBSCRPTION PRICE
Postpaid in the United States, its possessions, and countries throughout the world. One year $33; sht more $16.50; three moretim, $2.25; simple copy, 15 cents. Almodification three moretim, $2.25; simple copy, 15 cents. Almodification weeks in advance.

The best services, changes of address should be received to receive and advance.

Changes are used for two weeks or more at any give address.

address.

Advertising rates given on application, White anders to accept only reliable advertisements. The Christian ence Publishing Society will not be responsible to the life for advertisements, and the right to decline or construe any advertisement in reserved.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE PUBLISHING SOCIETY
One Howard Street, Boston, Mass., U.S.A. 02115
Photo: (617) 282-2300

(علدًا منه ليُصل)

Mood in U.S. Midwest: U.S. policy confused . . . uncertain

Tax-rebate plan stirs little enthusiasm: economic squeeze draws most complaints

By Godfrey Sperling Jr. Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

In the Midwest Americans are uncertain - with a deep yearning to know the extent of U.S. problems and what solutions there really are.

This is the impression that emerges from a grass-roots reporting tour deep in the Midwest.

At the same time, Americans:

• Do not appear elated at their imminent federal income-tax rebate. Most believe it will be too small to make much of a dent in the high cost of living.

· Are confused over the competing plans in Washington on the economy

The general sense of uncertainty comes through in statements like these from farmers, businessmen, laborers, housewives - from young, middle-aged, and elderly:

'I'm going broke on this farm. Everything I buy is going sky high but I'm not getting enough for what I

"I'm too poor to go to college this year, and my folks can't help right now. And I can't get a job."

"I hate to go to the supermarket anymore. Every time I go the prices are up. Will there be no end to this?" The price of gas still is way up. But I don't see any shortage. I think we got taken by the oil companies and the hoodlums last year." The President says this is no depression. For me and my family this is a depression."

Tax-rebate reaction

On the pending tax rebate, those in the middle and upper-income group say, 'It probably will be only a couple of hundred dollars, or less. And that will go fast."

Those in the lower-income brackets also see whatever they may get, even if it is $1,000, going fast, too. They are saying: "Everything cost so much ... 'T'll use that up in proceries in no time at all." . . . "I owe so much; this will hardly touch

By a staff correspondent of

If you've never driven an electric

Just turn the ignition key, release

auto, take it from a novice — it's easy.

the emergency brake, and step on the accelerator. No shifting gears. No

Recently this reporter took a Citi-

Car, America's only mass-produced electric car, for a drive on twisting roads through central Florida orange groves near CityCar's Sebring fac-

Drivers who insist on Detroit-style comfort may well find CitiCar disappointing. Its small, truck-type chasis gives a ride reminiscent of a World War II Jeep; and its working seconds, while getting from 25 to 35

But the car reputedly is easy to maintain, thanks to its electric motor

- which of course means no radiator, spark plugs, points, carburetor, fuel filter, water pump, and so forth. Its body, made of Cycolac (the same plastic used for football helmets),

★Electric auto seen

answer to pinch

"We're at the same stage now that Volkswagen was 25 years ago," says

Robert M. Stone II, who is Sebring-

Vanguard's marketing manager.

'It's been a marketing challenge from the beginning to reverse 60 benefits and all the economics of

One of the biggest benefits, obviously, is the ability to go without

A full charge of CitiCar's eight patteries costs about 25 cents at current residential rates in Atlanta.

That means it will travel its 50-miles

range at a fuel cost of about 1/2-cent

In terms of fuel burned, CitiCar

To get that kind of performance on travels up to 75 miles for each gallon of oil used at the electric power plant.

batteries, CitiCar's designers trimmed every possible pound. The car has an aluminum frame and roll cage, plastic body, snap-in plastic windows, and a minimum of ornamentation. Its total weight comes to 1,250 pounds, of which 520 pounds is

Robert G. Beaumont, president of Sebring-Vanguard, originally conceived CitiCar as an answer to urban pollution. The Arab oil embargo, however, handed him a strong, unexpected sales pitch to promote his little "People don't yet understand all the years of driving habits. . . .

electric vehicles."

gasoline.

per mile.

batteries.

two-seaters.

Continued from Page 1

parts give off a Jeep-like whine. Detroit fans also may object to its pickup. From zero to 25 takes 6.2

takes another 12.8 seconds.

chitch. Away you go.

The Christian Science Monitor

Electric cars drive easy

Sebring, Fla.

The tax rebate and a tax cut, whatever they eventually come to, will be welcomed, but people are not waiting on pins and needles to receive

People confused over the various economic-energy proposals echo one farmer who said: "I can't make head or tail out of what they are saying they want to do about the economy."

A housewife: "I don't think anyone - including the President and the economists — knows what he is doing. It's a real mess."

Behind the uncertainty . . .

Behind the uncertainty lies an even deeper puzzlement:

"Do we or do we not have an oil shortage?" a number of people asked. 'We're told we're running out - but there doesn't seem to be any shortage at the gas stations."

"I don't know what to do," a housewife said. 'T'm told to cut down on fuel and electricity - but when I do, the utility companies raise their rates because they say they aren't selling as much."

Remarks like the above are common. People simply don't know who to believe on energy-related matters.

Post-Watergate skepticism

A reporter also finds a prevalent view that government no longer is able to cope with the monumental problems that beset the nation today. Some of this attitude relates - as might be expected - to post-Watergate skepticism directed at public officials at every governmental level.

But many people are saying they just are not sure that any public official — and, particularly, any president, can manage a nation which is having both inflation and recession at the same time - and which also seems to be running out of energy at a rapid rate.

Yet - by and large - people remain hopeful. "We'll come out of this somehow," was a persistent thread in the comments of those interviewed. Yet there was little hope expressed by the jobless. They are the most uncertain also is supposed to be virtually though, as this reporter learned.

While going up a hill, my CitiCar sputiered and came to a halt. The dashboard meter showed dead bat-

Remembering some advice I'd gotten before leaving the CitiCar offices,

however, I turned off the ignition key and waited beside the road for 10 minutes. During that time, the batteries rejuvenated themselves enough to get me one mile closer to home.

Another 10 minute wait and the batteries built up enough juice to get me back to the CitiCar HQ another

That's a trick you can't do with a maintenance-free.

on energy emerging

By Peter C. Stnert Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

. Washington

The energy legislation on which the administration, is expected to lower national goals while raising consumer

• The old objective of national energy independence is likely to be officially abandoned. The new goal: to cut petroleum imports from the present 40 percent to 25 percent in five

Total self-sufficiency, says one important committee member, Rep. Joseph L. Fisher (D) of Virginia, "is quite out of the question."

• The legislation is likely to impose a stiff gasoline tax, rising as high as 40 cents a gallon in five years. "It's going to be unpopular," Representative Fisher concedes.

Major role played

The congressman, who spoke to a small group of reporters at breakfast, plays a role in the tax-writing committee out of all proportion to his freshman seniority.

An economist who has taught at force which refined it.

The resulting legislation is increas ingly viewed as forming the basis for the White House now is "agreement on basic objectives," and disagreement only on "how rapidly [to accomplish the objectives] and when to begin."

we've got to produce something."

consulted through a series of explor story meetings at the staff level, and between Ways and Means Committee Chairman Al Ullman and Federal Energy Administrator Frank

. The committee plans to have the package pieced together by mid-April. It is expected to be assembled on the framework of a bill introduced earlier this month by Chairman Ul-

Petroleum imports would be re-

The United States' search for an energy policy is likely to clarify this week - but the sharpening outlines may give American consumers a jolt.

House Ways and Means Committee begins putting final touches this week, amid close consultation with the Ford

Harvard University and advised evary President since Franklin D. Roosevelt, he wrote the original draft of the committee's energy package and then coordinated the internal task the long-awaited compromise on energy policy between Congress and Representative Fisher says there

'We both realize," he says, "that

Consultations frequent

The Ford administration has been Zarb.

duced using a combination of fuel allocations, higher taxes, and standby rationing authority, with one new wrinkle - a solution-seeking energy trust fund which, unlike other federal trust funds, would have a fixed termination date. It would, in Mr. Fisher's words, "Self-destruct after a period of mile away.

Detroit buggy.

*Low income tax cuts favored Continued from Page 1

However, says White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, Mr. Ford 'has not ruled out a veto," because the House and Senate "tacked on a lot of extraneous amendments," which have nothing to do with the immediate business of getting tax money back to the American people.

Rep. AL Ullman (D) of Oregon, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, also described some Senate tax bill amendments, as "irresponsible" and said he would strive to remove them from the final

It is "virtually certain," said Mr. Ullman Sunday on "Issues and Answers" (ABC-TV), that the "initial rebate checks will go out in May and that reductions in withholdings rates will begin either in May or June.

"Almost every American," added Mr. Ullman, "will be getting a rebate on 1974 taxes and a reduction in 1975 withholding rates."

The current tax bill, said Mr. Ullman, constitutes "a single reduction - a one-year proposition." Permanent tax reform would be tackled

The size of the tax cut, sources say, troubles Mr. Ford less than his expectation that Congress also will pass huge spending programs, designed to combat the recession, thereby ballooning the fiscal 1976 federal budget deficit.

Bigger deficit

"The Democrats," said Mr. Nessen Sunday on 'Face the Nation' (CBS-TV), "are pushing programs that would result in a $105 billion budget deficit." This, added the press secretary, is "another factor" in the President's decision whether or not to veto the tax bill. Mr. Ullman, while approving the need "to hold down on government spending," said that — given the magnitude of problems facing the country - it would be unrealistic "to believe we can reduce [the role of] government much in the immediate future."

. • The Senate version would rebate up to $240 of 1974 taxes while the House would limit rebates to $200. (Mr. Ford's original proposal would have returned up to $1,000 to upperincome taxpayers.)

• 1975 tax rates will be lowered by an amount still to be decided, with lower income groups benefiting the most (The President, while agreeing to lower taxes for poor Americans, would postpone this issue for later legislation.)

· Some form of "negative income tax" - that is, a U.S. Treasury cash payment to Americans too poor to pay taxes - likely will be signed into law.

· The investment tax credit for business will be increased, to encourage corporations to plow back more earnings into plant expansion. Major oil companies, however, are expected to lose their 22 percent oil depletion allowance.

• The future of some provisions in the Senate-passed bill - notably a $100 payment to every social-security recipient, a tax credit to Americans who buy new homes this year, and increased tax deductions for working parents who hire child care - is uncertain.

Brennan to return to N.Y. labor post By the Associated Press

New York Peter J. Brennan, who recently resigned as Secretary of Labor, will return to his old job as president of the New York City Building and Construction Trades Council on April 1, a spokesman said.

Contacts with African nationalists?

Rhodesia talks hit grave snags

By Geoffrey Godsell Overseas news editor of The Christian Science Monitor

The resumption of meaningful contacts between African nationalists and the white-minority government of Prime Minister Ian Smith hangs in the balance.

These contacts - begun under pressure from South African Prime Minister John Vorster (on Rhodesian whites) and the Presidents of Zambia,

Latin America correspondent of

The Christian Science Monitor

mounted this past weekend as terror-terrorists killed 24 people in am-bushes, outright assassinations, and kidnap-executions. It was the worst

In what was seen as an outright example of rightist vengeance against leftists, hooded right-wing terrorists assassingted the town councliman of Temperly, a suburb of Buenos Aires, claiming he had supported left-wing activities as a member of radical Peronist youth organi-

The same group followed this up by killing another seven people in a While rightist groups were responsible for some of the weekend killings,

many of them were blamed by police

These include the Montoneros, young radical Peronistas. They were responsible for the recent assassination of the honorary United States consul in the provincial city of Cor-more disciplined Ejercito Revolucionario del Pueblo, the ERP, which is, particularly active in Buenos Aires and the provincial city of Tucuman.

Another leftist terrorist group is the

What all this terrorism portends for Argentina is not clear. But it is certain that the government of President Maria Estela Martinez de Peron has been weakened by the terrorist offensive, which it has been unable to kidnapping and bombing spree.

Leftists blamed most on leftist elements.

ism hit a new peak.

sations.

such period in memory.

Argentina's political problems

In three days, leftist and rightist

Argentine terrorism

hacks at regime power

Tanzania, and Botswana (on Rhode- are virtually excluded by the white sian blacks) - were broken off earlier this month after Mr. Smith had rearrested one of the African nationalist leaders, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole.

Prime Minister Smith was in Cape Town last week for talks with Mr. Vorster. The latter is thought to have done some arm-twisting to try to get Mr. Smith to woo the Africans back to parieying. The whole purpose of the operation is to open up Rhodesian politics to Africans, from which they

Moreover, Mrs. Peron's own role in the government remains a subject of controversy. Her reliance on her personal secretary, Jose Lopez Rega, who is also Minister of Social Welfare,

Mr. Lopez Rega, whose image as the strongman has earned him the nickname "Rasputin," is an amateur

As Mrs. Peron's chief side, as he was for her late husband, Juan Domingo Peron, Mr. Lopez Rega seems to have the final say on appointments.

decisions, and other matters - controlling the President's almost every

For her part, Mrs. Peron has not been able to bring any semblance of confidence to her administration. In fact, her public speeches have become the subject of mounting speculation. Many of these talks are full of mystical appeals, while she also frequently breaks down into sobbing military may be considering a new takeover, repeating the pattern that has become so common in recent

Argentine politics: that of a military coup when civilian government seems

To many Argentines, the tragedy of this pattern is that the military has been unable to solve the nation's many problems any more effectively

One rumor is that retired Gen.

Agustin Alejandro Lamisse, the officer who was President for the two years before Mr. Peron returned from 17 years' exile to become President, is ddering a comeback

There are now rumors that the

in the middle of the talks.

Military has failed, too to be collapsing.

than have civilians.

is under growing attack.

astrologist.

An Argentine 'Rasputin'

minority.

Setback for Vorster

Whatever hope Mr. Vorster might have had of nudging Mr. Smith forward in Cape Town has been dealt a setback by the murder while they were conferring last Tuesday of one of Mr. Sithole's lieutenants, Herbert Chitepo. Mr. Chitepo was killed by a mine planted in his garage driveway in Lusaka, Zambia, where he has been living in exile. The Rhodesian Government refused to allow his body to be returned to Rhodesia for interment, and the funeral took place in Many Africans inside and outside Rhodesia - and particularly Mr. Sithole's followers — believe that Mr. Chitepo was assassinated on Mr. Smith's orders to compound strains in the nationalist movement following Mr. Sithole's arrest. This (it is argued) would give Rhodesia's whites a reason to drop the whole idea of early constitutional changes in favor of blacks. News dispatches from the Rhodesian capital, however, speak of suspicions there that Mr. Chitepo's murder was the result of struggles going on behind the scenes for leadership of the African nationalist movement in Rho-

The Liberation Committee of the Organization of African Unity issued a statement in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, Thursday, accusing Mr. Smith or his agents of the Chitepo murder and calling on African nationalists in Rhodesia to mobilize for a renewal of guerrilla warfare against the Smith government. Mr. Sithole and Mr. Chitepo have been associated in the past with that section of the nationalist movement in Rhodesia responsible for most guerrilla activity in recent years.

Nkomo more pragmatic

The other important organized section of the nationalist movement is that led by Joshua Nkomo, generally described as being more pragmatic and less of an intellectual than Mr. Sithole.

Both Mr. Sithole and Mr. Nkomo had been in detention from 1964 until last December. Since their release, they had operated under the umbrella of the African National Council whose head is Bishop Muzorewa. The latter was overshadowed by Mr. Sithole and Mr. Nkomo once they were released from detention; but since Mr. Sithole's arrest, the Bishop — thought to be too prone to compromise by Mr. Sithole's followers - has seemed to be asserting himself.

NEW LOW PRICES ON THESE NEW CHEVROLET MODELS.

Look at the car. It looks much the same. Yet look at the sticker and you'll find we've trimmed over $300 off the Manufacturer's Suggested Retail

Price of our sporty little Monza 2+2, Motor Trend's "Car of the Year," to help put our new Monza "S" Hatchback Coupe within reach of more people. We did it by taking off some equipment items and giving you the option of ordering them separately. Your dealer can give you the details.

Now, $699 less than the newest compact from Chevy's nearest sales competitor."

Now Nova is even more affordable. What we did was switch tires on this new. "S" model, putting on a set of tough bias belteds in place of the standard radials and passing the sizable savings along to you. Of course if you want radials, you can order them. If you don't, enjoy your savings-and your Nova. It's a solid car, with a well-established reputation. Why pay $599 more for a fancy newcomer that's about the same size, when Nova (even without radials) offers so much-for so much less?

Now that makes sense CHEVROLET MAKES SENSE FOR AMERICA Chevrolet

DON'T MAKE ANY DEAL UNTIL YOU'VE SEEN YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER.

Inside the news-briefly

WITH ANALYSIS FROM MONITOR CORRESPONDENTS

Nessen cites Viet shortages

Washington White House press secretary Ron Nessen said Sunday the United States had shipped no military equipment to South Vietnam this year and was providing less than 40 percent of the Saigon government's ammunition and

He blamed congressional cuts in military aid for the shortages. Mr. Nessen, interviewed on the CBS's "Face the Nation" program, said South Vietnam had shown willingness and strength to fight, but it depended on ammunition, gasoline, and equipment to carry on.

Japanese fishermen complain of Soviet fleet

Japan's Fishery Agency says a large Soviet fishing fleet caused more than $1 million worth of damage to the nets and other equipment of Japanese fishermen this year off the Japanese .

The Soviet fleet, increasing its operations off Japan, ranged for about 700 miles along the Pacific Coast, from the northernmost main island of Hokkaido down past Tokyo.

"Frankly, we don't see the exact Soviet motives, but I hear similar complaints from fishermen on the U.S. West and East coasts and in Europe." said Setsuro Hyodo, police bureau chief of the Fishery Agency. Speculation is that the Soviet action might be a warning that Japan must let Soviet fishermen operate near Japan, if the Japanese want to continue fishing near Siberia and the Soviet coastal night and to meet a bipartisan group of congressional leaders at the White House Monday morning, faces many

One of them is whether the telegram President Ford sent to prime minister Yitzhak Rabin Friday night,

when the fate of the Kissinger mission still hung in the balance, really tried to put pressure on the Israelis by saying that the U.S. would have to "consider carefully its next moves in its relations with Israel" if the talks

Reporting this message, Israel's

Elsewhere it was remarked here that whereas in 1956 Isreal responded to a somewhat similar message from President Eisenhower, and withdrew from Sinai, the Israelis in this case

For Dr. Kissinger, the reverse in the Middle East comes at a time when he has been under criticism for many reasons, including the charge that he mismanaged events during the Cyprus conflict by failing to support the Greeks and put pressure on the

The Secretary is known to blame

Congress for the failures of American foreign policy not only in Turkey but also in Southeast Asia. The refusal of Congress to provide the funds the Features of the proposed "phase

- A reduction of mandatory busing

- Replacement of the existing six school regions by nine smaller community school regions, each of which encompasses residential areas of both blacks and whites, plus a tenth citywide region consisting of "magnet" schools - facilities whose special, innovative eductional programs draw

students from the entire city school

- A choice for each student of region, applying to attend a magnet vices.

being assigned to a school in his home from the current 18,000 students under the existing limited plan to a citywide maximum of 14,900.

Students to have choice

*Reaction to Boston school plan state radio interpreted it as blaming

Continued from Page 1

Ford telegram

questions.

failed.

the Israelis.

chose to defy the U.S.

Turks at the right time.

Congress criticized

Continued from Page 1

two" plan include:

district

*U.S. foreign policy—

in trouble on three fronts

Ford energy program seen costing billions

Washington The parts of President Ford's energy program already in effect will cost Americans $6.7 billion to $13 billion a year, according to a Library of Congress study released by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff (D) of Connecticut.

The major part of the Ford program already in effect is a $1-a-barrel tariff on imported crude oil. Most other parts of the President's program require congressional action.

"The Library of Congress study shows that even a duty of $1 a barrel imposes very significant burdens of the public. The $1 tariff and the changes in the entitlement program that accompanied it should be revoked immediately by President Ford," said Senator Ribicoff, who requested the

Mr. Ford originally intended to Impose additional tariffs to bring the total to $3 a barrel, but has delayed $2 of the increase until May 1 to allow time for Congress and the White House to work together on an energy plan.

Schlesinger plays down loss of Southeast Asia

Southeast Asia's loss to the communists would not be a significant shift in the world military balance against the United States, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger is quoted as saying in Sunday's Philadelphia Bulletin. He said what is involved now is a test of American "steadfastness" - how the United States exits from Indo-China after a 20-year involvement.

The Bulletin, in a copyrighted article, said the Defense Secretary's remarks on Southeast Asia came in a discussion of his new defense budget. in which he is attempting to meet what he says is a trend that threatens to shift the military balance toward the Soviet

Kurdish rebel leader says Baghdad has won

Muliah Mustafa Barzani, the Kurdish insurgent leader, has ordered his querrilla army to end its long struggle againsT Baghdad and to take refuge in

Washington

While thousands of Kurdish civilians and guerrillas were struggling across icy mountain passes on foot to reach Iran before the cease-fire proclaimed by Iraq ends on April 1, General Barzani hinted in an interview at his mountaintop headquarters that he would personally seek asylum in the United States. He appealed to the United States to seek an extension of the cease-fire and to prevent genocide of the Kurds of northern Iraq.

Utility bills ballooned by fuel-hike clauses

Washington Automatic price hikes granted to electric and gas utility companies . because of increased fuel bills cost consumers about $6.5 billion last year, more than all the rate increases granted in the previous 25 years, according to a congressional survey released Sunday.

Fuel adjustment increases - now a common clause in most utility tariffs represented the bulk of nearly $10 billion in rate increases granted to utilities last year, the survey released by two Senate Government Operations subcommittees said.

Sens. Lee Metcalf (D) of Montana. and Edmund S. Muskie (D) of Maine. subcommittee chairmen, said that in most states fuel cost increases can now be added to utility bills without prior review. "It is unlikely that even the strongest supporter of the fuel adjustment clause ever envisioned such an enormous cost increase -S6.5 billion - in a single year," they said in a joint statement.

Portugal has difficulty forming government

Prime Minister Vasco Goncalves met Portugal's Military Revolutionary Council here Sunday to discuss apparent difficulties in forming a new. more left-wing provisional government.

After 10 days of intensive consultations, the trouble centered around the attitudes of the Socialists and center-left Popular Democrat parties, which have belonged to the government coalition since it was formed last May, following the April

In the last few days, both have made veiled threats to withdraw from the government in protest against the installation of a revolutionary council with powers to override the

Thailand on alert for insurgents

Bangkok Police have alerted border units to watch for a force of about 3,000 Chinese-trained insurgents moving across the Laotian frontier into northern Thailand, the Bangkok Post

The newspaper said Thai authorities regarded the insurgent move as the possible start of a major communist offensive. There was no comment from the government, and Defense Minister Pramam Adireksan said he was awaiting word from Army chief of staff Gen. Kriangsak Chamanand, who is engaged in a survey of the northern provinces where Thai guerrillas are

The report came five days after

Thailand's new coalition government announced it would recognize China. following a steady growth in triendly contacts in recent years.

Soviets warn Medvedev to halt new journal

Dissident Soviet historian Roy A. Medvedev was called to the Moscow public prosecutor's office Saturday and warned to stop publication of a new journal intended to voice loyal criticism of the Soviet system, triends said.

Legal officials, the friends added. also warned the historian to cancel a contract with a Western company for the publication of a book he has written suggesting that Soviet Nobel laureate Mikhail Sholokhov did not write the novel "Quiet Don."

Dr. Medvedev began to circulate his new journal, entitled "20th Century," in typewritten form two weeks ago. It contains articles by several authors who share the historian's Marxist viewpoint.

Goldwater wants U.S. back on gold standard

Sen. Barry Goldwater said Sunday the United States should put its money back on the gold standard to restore stability in the economy.

Sen, Barry Goldwater

in a speech prepared for the Committee for Monetary Research at Columbia University, the Arizona Republican said the gold standard might help end the current inflation and recession.

"I know that the gold standard is in no sense perfect, but it shines brightly in comparison with what we have today," he said. "It gave stability and discipline to governmental and industrial commerce." The United States abandoned the gold standard in

U.S. airlift still delayed

The American airlift of food, fuel, and ammunition into the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh was still suspended Sunday, pending a government operation aimed at clearing away Communist-led insurgent rocketlaunching positions near the airport. American sources said it was unlikely that the airlift - Cambodia's sole source of supply - would resume on Monday

More aid for jobless?

The U.S. Congress's Joint Economic Committee proposed Saturday in Washington a program of more publicservice jobs and federal grants to reduce unemployment. Among major proposals were a quick tax cut of $32 billion to $35 billion, about the size of the tax cut bill which passed the Coffee pricing

Brazil and Colombia, two of the world's major coffee producers, are proposing renegotiation of the international coffee agreement which would allow up to a 10 percent price increase, dipiomatic sources in Brasilia said over the weekend.

UN 'superagency'

Proposals to elevate the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) into a superagency to help 'third world' states increase their share of world manufacturing capacity were introduced Saturday at UNIDO's general conference in Lima, Peru.

Egyptian sentencing

Egypt's Supreme State Security Court will hand down its judgment May 10 against 92 people - mostly students charged with plotting to overthrow President Sadat last April, the court president has announced. The prosecution has demanded the death sentence for 74 of those on trial.

Van Gogh stolen

A Van Gogh painting entitled 'Paysanne Bechant," or "Working Peasant," valued at about $85,000 has been stolen from the O'Hana gallery in London's Mayfair, Scotland Yard officials said Sunday administration requested, he feels,

has obliged South Vietnam to pull back its troops and may lead to the loss of Cambodia to the communists.

In his opinion, the evidence that the U.S. has broken faith with South

Vietnam and Cambodia is the cause of Thailand and Philippine indications that the U.S. may have to remove

These developments together with the congressional move cutting off military aid to Turkey, he feels, have undermined American influence on a global scale. The Israelis, in particular, failed to respond to the prospect of American guarantees of their security and fuel supply as a basis for the concessions Dr. Kissinger wanted

On his way back to Washington, Dr.

Kissinger stopped briefly in London

where he met Ambassador Elliot L.

Richardson who is said to be his choice for secretary of state should he

In an appearance on the CBS program "Face the Nation," presidential press secretary Ron Nessen refused to say whether the President at Dr.

Kissinger's request had made an 11th hour attempt to bring the Israelis

He insisted that President Ford had been in touch with both sides and that he felt both sides had made a "sincere school, applying to remain in his present school, applying for a program that would bus him to a suburban school or applying for an out-of-court-supervised community councils elected by parents and students in

- Ten region superintendents plus

- Direct access by the chairman of each community council to a citywide educational council that the court is developing to assist and monitor implementation of the plan it will

- An as yet ill-defined participation of Boston area colleges, universities, and businesses by contracting with individual schools and school regions to provide educational ser-region transfer within the city.

each region.

ultimately adopt.

in coming months decide to resign.

Meeting with Richardson troops and aircraft there.

them to make.

tons of arsenic waste in the south Atlantic, a plan that had raised worldwide protest, especially from Brazil, Argentina, and Uruguay. The government announced that a special cabinet meeting turned down an application by the state oil corporation, Neste, to allow the 110,000-ton tanker Enskeri to dump the industrial poison in the sea, south of the Ivory Coast. The dumping, scheduled for next Friday, led Atlantic maritime states to threaten diplomatic reprisals. The Sunday announcement said that Prime Minister Kalevi Sora's Cabinet amended an earlier decision last Monday that found the dumping plans neither illegal nor contrary to internattional agreements.

Finland decided Sunday not to allow one of its tankers to dump 100

Finns won't dump arsenic

Continued from Page 1

Has the danger, Mr. Shath was asked, of hostilities increased? "I really don't know what Israel wants to do. It has always adopted hostile, aggressive tactics whenever it felt it could get away with them.

"And I don't know what the other Arab partners will do. From our viewpoint nothing has changed. We will continue the struggle for our rights and our land."

Francis Ofner cables from Jerusalem: Members of the Israel Government were aware of the dangers ahead as they saw Secretary of State Kissinger off at Ben Gurion airport after the collapse of his latest Middle East peace mission. For Israel, these dangers include:

1. Heightened tension on Israeli-Arab cease-fire lines - with the possibility of a resumed war of attrition, or even all-out conflict particularly if the UN peace-keeping forces are not able to stay on when their mandate runs out in a few weeks' time.

2. Increased influence of such radical forces confronting Israel as Syria and the PLO. . 3. Increased Soviet influence in Middle East diplomacy, with Israel likely to face a united Arab front at Geneva backed by the full diplomatic weight of the U.S.S.R.

4. Only half-hearted U.S. support for Israel - and not simply because of the American desire for "even-handedness" and for easy relations with Arab oil-producers.

Sharp Ford note Israel sources say President Ford dispatched "a sharp note" to Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, reportedly accusing the Israel Government of insufficient flexibility and warning of a possible re-appraisal of U.S. relations with Israel.

Prime Minister Rabin confirmed to the press Sunday the reception of a note from Mr. Ford. But he avoided disclosing its content.

Wanting to make Dr. Kissinger feel the extent of Israeli determination at the present juncture, his Israeli hosts invited him to a short trip to the ruins of Masada, the desert fortress overlooking the Dead Sea, prior to his departure. Here the last defenders of Jewish independence held out against the Romans three years after Emperor Titus destroyed the temple in Jerusalem in 70 A.D. Realizing that everything was lost, they finally took their own lives in a collective suicide

Prof. Yigael Yadin, who unearthed the Masada ruins, turned to Dr. Kissinger. "Never again," he said.

*Kissinger fails | *Viet map redrawn, day by day

Continued from Page 1

· All that remains of Saigon governand Lam Dong. But the capitals of these two provinces now are considered to be extremely vulnerable, because of the fall of neighboring Quane Duc.

In the meantime, one of the government's 10 infantry divisions is reported to have been destroyed as a fighting force. The 23rd Infantry Division, which had already been badly dispersed in fighting earlier this month around the highlands town of Ban Me Thuot, now has abandoned its temporary headquarters at a town located in hill country 50 miles from the central coast. In the view of some military observers, this leaves Military Region II headquarters at the coastal city of Nha Trang vulnerable to an eventual attack.

Remnants scattered

Remnants of the 23rd Division are apparently scattered over a wide area attempting to make their way to the Refugees who have reached the central coast report that there is much bitterness toward the United States among some of the ragged 23rd Division troops. The refugees said the soldiers feel that the United States is "abandoning" them.

A rumor that President Thieu, under pressure from the United States, made a deal with the Communists to give up the highlands is said to be widely believed by the soldiers. The rumor is dismissed as totally groundless by well-informed authorities in Saigon but has nonetheless had a demoralizing effect on quite a few Vietnamese on the government side.

In the highlands city of Dalat, for ment control in the Central Highlands instance, this same rumor appears to now are the provinces of Tuyen Duc have contributed to a mass exodus at a time when there is no immediate military threat to the city. Dalat has become a city of fear, without a shot being fired, despite denials from the government that it is being aban> doned. The retreat of the 23rd Division has apparently been the most disorderly to occur so far. In other cases, the South Vietnamese troops have had the time to blow up munitions, heavy equipment, and bunkers before making their withdrawal.

The Vletnamese marines, for instance, managed to withdraw in relatively good order from northernmost Quang Tri Province. They quickly set up defensive positions to the north of the former imperial city of Hue and around the port city of Da Nang farther to the south.

Civilians pay price

But while many troops have gotten away unscathed, many of the civilians who have followed the troops have had to pay a tragic price. Many only had the time to grab a few belongings before fleeing.

The rich could hire trucks and even military helicopters in some cases to get them out. But many of the poor have had to move on foot. Thousands attempting to reach the coast from the highlands now are blocked by a blown-out bridge, by Communist troops, and by fire fights between the Communists and Saigon government troops.

Many choose to stay Most of the refugees making their way to the central coast from the

By Joan Forbes, staff cartographer The Communist 'corridor' highlands appear to be Vietnamese, not native highlanders. Most of the estimated 600,000 highland tribesmen who were under government control have apparently chosen to stay behind. They are strongly attached to the mountains and abhor the coast and the Vietnamese who live there. Government authorities estimate that in all more than a million refugees are on the move at the moment. As has been the case during previous crises in South Vietnam, profiteers have been able to take advantage of the refugees. Under-thetable prices for air tickets have soared.

*Saigon hopes to move refugee hordes by sea

If Dr. Dan has his way, the refugees will be involved in the biggest movement by sea to be witnessed in Vietnam since nearly a million refugees were moved southward from North Vietnam after the signing of the Geneva Accords in 1954. But it is not yet clear where the ships he will need

Appeal for help issued. Dr. Dan, himself a onetime refugee are going to come from.

from North Vietnam, said he has issued an appeal for help to a number of countries, including Great Britain, Nationalist China, South Korea, and the Philippines. But the United States is obviously the country which he is counting on most.

"We're asking for LSTs, hospital ships, and cargo boats," he said. "And the United States has a much greater capacity than any other nation."

South Vietnam has a very limited capacity for the kind of operation Dr. Dan envisages. But he said that he was proposing nonetheless that the government requisition all the boats available in the country to help move the refugees.

They cannot be moved by road, because the Communist-led forces have cut the main north-south highway at several places between Da Nang and safe coastal enclaves farther to the south.

The Deputy Premier estimates that the population shifts now under way will involve more than a million people.

Almost equally large numbers of refugees were generated by the Tet offensive of 1968 and the so-called Easter offensive of 1972. But many of them were able to return to their home areas. This time there seems little such hope.

California refuses Nixon protection cost By the Associated Press

Sacramento, Calif. The administration of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has refused to give the San Clemente Police Department $117,000 to help protect former President Nixon, a spokesman says.

(علدًا منه ليصل

EDUCATION ISSUES TODAY

Answers to 'Your opinion, please'

Educators' priorities

- MONEY
- UNIONS
- DIVERSITY
- QUALITY
- EQUALITY
- DISCIPLINE
- MINORITIES

On Jan. 20, beginning a year-long discussion of major issues in education, we invited you to state

And more than half of those included additional information in the spirit of one respondent who wrote, "I regret that my concern cannot fit within these [the 2 inch x 5 inch reply box] confines." On April 14, a special section will carry as many of your commitments as space allows. Today's page

More than 100 readers insisted vehemently that the schools have gotten away from teaching basic skills and that they must "return" to the "three Rs." Not a few cited experiences in the schools - both as parents and as teachers - to prove their Permissiveness and lack of discipline were given as reasons for this academic failing. Also poorly trained and unqualified teachers were cited as

Many of the readers concerned about money

More than 100 readers said that many schools are were either college students or parents facing ever-lawless, undisciplined battlegrounds, where students run rampant, teachers bargain for higher

And many who painted that ugly picture included busing as one of the causes. Some 50 readers insisted that "separate but equal" is the proper condition for United States schools. A few insisted that integration should not be a goal of the public came from the United States, several overseas

Although the overwhelming majority of opinions reports results of the poll.

excuses for poor schools.

readers also responded.

pay, and academics are neglected.

points.

CURRICULUM

Readers' priorities

- BASICS
- MONEY
- DISCIPLINE
- QUALITY
- MORAL STANDARDS
- CAREER TRAINING
- CURRICULUM
- BUSING

By Cynthia Parsons

From West Germany: Not enough college places. Difficulties arise in dividing children at the age of 10 or thereabouts into either a vocational or academic stream.

From Lebanon: The concern is developing an education system that is relevant to Arabs and not just a carbon copy of some European system. Another question is how to free higher education from government control. From Scotland: All subjects in the curriculum should be more closely integrated, responses indicated. There should be more interaction among the various school levels. From British Columbia: More remedial programs and basic English literacy for the thousands of non-English-speaking immigrants are needed.

From Iran: A more open relationship between the schools and community is being sought, as well as an understanding of education as a life-long endeavor not limited to the childhood years.

Some would reinstate prayer

Several United States readers, citing increasing breakup of families and decline in church-going, called for schools to teach moral standards and

Several readers argued that the schools must put a time of prayer back into their schedules, must insist on a salute to the flag, must insist that middle-class values be taught to all children. regardless of race, creed, or country of origin.

And many readers wrote earnestly of the need for all children to have some sort of skill training. academically should be taught a trade; but another rs argue should not be reserved for those in academic trouble, but should be available to all schoolchil-

Not one reader defended teacher militancy. All who wrote on the subject saw collective bargaining and the unionization of teachers as a problem, and some 21 readers called for an end to tenure laws in their states.

Smaller classes wanted

More than 25 readers spoke of a need for smaller classes, smaller schools, more tutoring, more individualization of instruction.

More than 100 wrote about quality, many referring to the quality and attitudes of teachers. Some identified themselves as parents. And for their part, many who said they were teachers cited a lack of parental and general citizen interest in the schools as a serious problem.

It is not possible to publish here all issues of concern to readers. But the following were emphasized: sex education, flexibility in the curriculum. vandalism, school governance, testing and experiments in the classroom, a need for more classical education, truant absences, a need for all children to learn printing as well as cursive writing.

Readers also want more money for research in education, fewer regulations from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare; a recognition of the French-Americans in New Hampshire; attention paid to drugs; special schools and classes for gifted children; better school principals; and the removal of compulsory schooling laws.

Melvin Maddocks

monev

'My choice for the biggest waste of the taxpayer's money for the month of March has to be the National Science Foundation's squandering of $84,000 to try to find out why people fall in love," pronounced Sen. William Proxmire, chairman of the Senate appropriations subcommittee.

And then, of course, the roof fell in. Senator Proximire had also raised a formidable eyebrow at the foundation's proposals to spend $112,000 to analyze the climate of Africa during the last Ice Age; $85,000 to study primate teeth; $81,000 to examine the social behavior of the Alaskan brown bear; and $15,000 to explore the ramifications of hitchhiking. But it was the love-money, clearly, that brought out the most anguished cry from the Senator. Assuming his voice-of-the-people tone, he declared: 'I believe that 200 million other Americans want to leave some things in life a mystery, and right at the top of things we don't want to know is why a man falls in love with a woman and vice versa."

So far nobody has been heard defending the special interests of the Alaskan brown bear or the American hitchhiker. But for . more than two years, it seems, Dr. Ellen Berscheid of the University of Minnesota has been investigating "the role of psychological dependency as an antecedent to interpersonal attraction . . . in which the individuals involved label their attraction 'romantic love.' " And she is not about to admit she has wasted $84,000, doing - well, what she just said.

To Dr. Berscheid's foundation-and-grant rhetoric, Senator Proximire responded bluntly: "Get out of the love racket. Leave that to Elizabeth Barrett Browning." Dr. Berscheid could have counterployed with a statistician's reading of the famous Browning lines: "How do I love thee? Let me count the ways" - a notion taken all too literally, alas, in the Age of Post-Kinsey. Instead she chose to get personal: "I assume the Senator has some knowledge of the divorce rate in this country and understands that the absence of love is the basis on which many divorces are instigated. I believe he has been divorced. ...

Apparently all's fair in wars about love. Who is the realist here? Who is the mmantic? The answer may be: Both.

In arguing that love is a matter reserved for poets, Senator Proxmire certainly is speaking for less than the 200 million constituents he claims. He must begin by subtracting millions of Americans who make best sellers of all those "open" marriage manuals and every last sex-text. In fact, the country, one may well worry, is full of amateur analysts who regard the whole subject as a subdivision of scienceand-technology.

Senator Proximire, by comparison with a lot of his fellow Americans, must rate, then, as a romantic on love. But Dr. Berscheid must qualify as a romantic on money. If the Senator - for better and for worse - has never heard of Freud, Dr. Berscheid, it would appear, has never heard of the recession, a word that sounds like air leaking out of a balloon. Money -we may guess - is her sweet mystery of

1 1 1 Romantics about love (or money) have this in common:

1. They believe passionately that the only thing in life keeping them from absolute happiness and total fulfillment is a shortage of love (or money).

2. They dislike having that credo exam-

Thus Senator Proxmire believes the examined love is not worth knowing — only the budgets of the examiners. Dr. Berscheid presumably believes the opposite.

The trouble is, the third thing romantics have in common is that they can't stand other kinds of romantics. So the rest of us are left to choose sides here.

If one is drawn to underdogs - especially those who don't know they're underdogs one should vote for Senator Proxmire, to use a politician's favorite metaphor. Romantic love can stand all the help it gets Romantic money, on the other hand, is an illusion whose time has gone. Perhaps tomorrow we will take vicarious pleasure again in the silken swish of Big Money being thrown about - for yachts-andparties, for the salaries of basketball players, even for esoteric scholarship. Would we be American if we didn't? For now we are distracted by a lot of old people eating pet food and a lot of young children not eating at all.

It may not be entirely fair to Dr. Berscheid, but in 1975 the best things in life have to be free. This leaves Senator Proximire with his Girl with the Flaxen Hair in her ridiculous tower, safe and uninterviewed. Just don't send him the heating bill for the castle - not right now.

A Monday and Thursday feature by the Monitor's columnist-at-large.

Blues suddenly skating toward first place

By Larry Eldridge Sports writer of The Christian Science Monitor

The St. Louis Blues plodded along in mediocrity for nearly all of the 1974-75 National Hockey League season, but now in the closing stages they are suddenly fighting for first place in their division.

Many different factors have produced the turnabout, but certainly one of the most important has been the rapid development of a young and untested defensive corps.

Except for the Plager brothers, Barclay and Bob, the Blues had very little experience on defense at the beginning of the season - and even less after trading the veteran Don Awrey to Montreal for some muchneeded scoring punch.

They had to go with youngsters like Bog Hess, Larry Sacharuk, Rick Wilson, and Bob Gassoff much of the time, and of course they were prone to mistakes which often turned into enemy goals.

New Coach Garry Young could have minimized this problem by using only two pairs of defensemen on a regular basis, but instead he boldly went with a six-man rotation.

games last year, This would open a spot in the outfield for Parker.

whom the Pirates hope to play regularly somewhere. But if Murtaugh does this, he knows he's

Besides, the Pirates need Al's speed to make up for the limited range of Willie Stargell (in left field) and Richie Zisk in right.

Both have good hands - when they can get to the ball. But patrolling centerfield for Pittsburgh means being able to play a

Murtaugh has an all-star catcher in Manny Sanguillen, who worked 151 games behind the plate in 1974, and a fine backup man in Duffy Dyer, who came to the Pirates from the Mets in a Rating the Pirates pitching is like having someone who knows nothing about art selecting a

Rembrandt from a good imita-

Martaugh's present Big Four are Jerry Reuss (who led the team in wins last season with 16);

Jim Rooker, Dock Ellis and Ken

Brett. But Bruce Kison is a threat to both Ellis and Brett. Also in camp as nonroster players are pitchers Sam McDowell and Juan

Pizzaro, plus Wayne Simpson,

who was acquired from Kansas

City. All three are extremely big

However, the Pirates' bullpen

looks strong with Dave Giusti,

Ramon Hernandez and Jim Min-shall, who was very effective late

Holding off the possibly better-balanced St. Louis Cardinals is going to be Pittsburgh's No. 1 problem. But Murtaugh says they can do it if everyone plays to his

The fences at Three Rivers

Stadium have also been shortened

this year for a team which last season led the majors with a .274 batting average and 1,560 hits!

last year in short relief.

question marks.

trade for outfielder Gene Clines.

field and a half.

going to make Oliver unhappy.

This undoubtedly cost the Blues some games, but it also had two very positive effects which are paying off now. For one, it gave the newcomers that invaluable on-the-job training which they had to get sooner or later. Secondly, it gave the Plager brothers plenty of rest, leaving them fresh for the stretch drive and the playoffs.

High scoring defensemen

Hess and Sacharuk are the two who have received the most attention, largely because they are both offensive-minded defensemen in the Bobby Orr tradition.

Hess, who is still only 19, was the Blues' No. 1 draft choice last summer after a sensational junior career. He has kept his scoring touch in the big jump to the NHL, where he ranks sixth on his team in scoring and has already broken Jimmy Roberts' club record for most points by a defenseman.

Sacharuk, a six-foot, 195-pounder, looks at first giance like your basic defensive-minded defenseman, but it turns out that he too loves to carry the puck, shoot a lot, and generally make things happen.

This style led some observers to question his ability to play defense, which may be part of the reason the New York Rangers let such a promising 22-year-old prospect get away in a trade. He's still not likely to be compared to a Bill White or a Terry Harper as a net guarder, but he's improving all the time defensively and meanwhile giving the Blues another scoring threat whenever he's on the ice.

Sacharuk has already broken the St. Louis record of 14 goals in a season by a defenseman, also set originally by Jimmy Roberts, and is closing in on the coveted 20-goal mark. Prior to this season only three defensemen had ever reached that figure - Orr (six times), Brad Park, and oldtimer Flash Hollett. This year Orr has done it again, Guy Lapointe of Montreal and Denis Potvin of the Islanders have joined the ranks, and now Sacharuk is also bidding to become a member of this exclusive club.

Offensive problems

Offensively the Blues still have some problems, as evidenced by the fact that not one St. Louis player is listed among the league's top 20 scorers. Garry Unger is their only major scoring threat.

Young forwards Pierre Plante and wavde Meitick rave also dirved well but overall the Blues know they can't match the goal-scoring pace of clubs like Boston, Montreal, Buffalo, and New York.

This puts pressure on the defense and the goeltenders, of course, and undoubtedly accounts at least in part for the team's erratic play at times this sesson.

Blues' Bob Plager body-checks Chicago's Dennis Hull times, but less than that on other occasions, and oversil his statistics

aren't as good as those of his fine

Veteran Eddie Johnston has been a steadying influence, playing most of the other games and coming up with some important victories - especially on the road. Young Yves Belanger, brought up from the minors

when Davidson went into a midseason rookie season a year ago.

Larry Sacharuk

John Davidson, a strapping 6ft. 3in., slump, has turned in the best goalsagainst average of all three in his 206-pounder tabbed by many as a future superstar, has played about limited appearances. half the games in goal with mixed results. He's been spectacular at

Put everything together and this doesn't really look like a team which should be battling for first place, but both vancouver and Chica had their troubles in the Smythe Division, giving the Blues their chance. Even if they don't make it, they're already assured of being in the playoffs - which they missed last season for the first time in their eightyear history. And clearly, whatever happens, this is a young team which believes its best years lie ahead.

TERMITE CONTROL

BERYERLY TERMITE CO.

WANTED TO BUY

ORIENTAL RUGS WANTED—USED Courteous European will buy your used Persian & Oriental rugs & wil 28y cash. For example 9x12 Serouk $700. 9x12 Kashan $1,500, 9x12 Kermanshah $1,500, 6x4 Antique Silk $3,000. 9x12 Antique Silk $9,500. Also any other sizes you may have Please call collect day or night (213) 874-2842 or write John Martin, $108 Metrose Ave. or Angeles. CA $0066

PUBLIC NOTICE

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
EXECUTIVE DEPUTY COMMISSIONER
MASSACHUSETTS DEPARTMENT OF EDU

MASSACHUSETTS DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
The Executive Deputy Commissioner is the second residing officer of the State Department of Education. Ne or site a accountable to the Commissioner of Education and though time, to the State Board of Education. The Desarthe Deputy Companyationer as responsible for effectively working with other parts of the Executive Beauth of state powerment and with the State Legislature. He or site has leadership responsibility Departmentiate for improving services to urban actual destricts and for promoting effirmative action for minorities in all programs and operations within the jurisdiction of the State Board of Education. The Executive Deputy Commissioner is responsible for coordinating effective working relationships and services with local school districts.

Salary: tip to SSS.550. depending upon experience.

Mail Letters of Application and Resumes to.

Change of pace

Can Pirates play defense too?

By Phil Elderkin

Bradenton, Fla.

Had the Pittsburgh Pirates been less error-prone last year they might have won the National League East by 10 games. Instead they made it by just one, edging the St. Louis Cardinals on the final day of the season.

Some observers suspect the Pirates will use baseballs with handles this year to solve their fielding problems.

In reality the Pirates are the Boston Bruins of major-league baseball. Their idea of defense is to outscore their rivals. Offense is their trademark. In fact, six members of Manager Danny Murtaugh's batting lineup this year have hit over .300 at least once during their big-league ca-

This is a team which made 162 errors in 162 games last season, spent half the year solving its ignition problems and then won 51 of its last 76 games.

"But I never thought we were that bad defensively." Murtaugh explained. 'Four of our kids were really playing everyday in the majors for the first time and there were bound to be some mistakes.

"Once we got a little experience, it began to show very quickly," Danny continued. "We didn't really come together as a team until the second half of the season. But I don't think anybody on the ball club ever doubted our talent. The only thing we were afraid of is that we might run out of time."

Basically, the Pirates still have defensive problems. Rookie Frank Taveras, who shared the shortstop position last year with Mario Mendoza, made 31 errors in 124 games. Although Mendoza is a stronger fielder than Ta-

HELP WANTED

Shift supervisor of Christian Sci-ence nurses. Active member of nursing management. Assisting in developing team concept of nursing. Long-time experience not re-quired. 38 single room occupancy. Pleasant housing and working con-

Pleasant housing and working con-ditions nearby to Washington, D.C.

Write or telephone collect Mrs. Marzee Ritchie

Director of Nursing

Lynn House

of Potomac Valley, Inc.

Alexandria, VA 22304 (703) 548-8066

Accredited by The Department of Care of The Mother Church

EARN WHILE YOU LEARN NURSING

Age is no factor and your earnings completely pay for tuition and living expenses while training, leaving about $100.00 per month for personal spending and taxes. The Tenacre School of Christian Science Nursing is one of three accredited by the Dept. of Care of The Mother Church, For information on nurses training or other employment opportunities at Tenacre write or call TENACRE (609) 921-8900. P.O. 50x 632, Princeton, NJ 08540.

us some information about yourself and we will contact you. Write Box J-31. One Norway St., Boston, MA

DESIGNEM/ARTIST — UNOWING company needs versatile designer/artist for commercial work in art for architecture. Send resume to John Huaffner, 4647 Lefton Street, Suite 601, Dalles, Texas 75247. Phone (214)

"LET US DO GOOD UNTO ALL"
(Gal 6:10). There is a place and a need for a graduate Christian Science nurse with a Visiting Nurse Service in NYC. Write Box N-2, 588 5th Ave., N.Y.C., NY 10336

RELIABLE FRIENDLY COMPANION

for couple in need. Light cooking. No laundry or cleaning. Live in. Own room. Call (312) 963-5114 (III.)

LAUNDRESS, PART-TIME FOR small sanatorium. Automatic, commercial washer and dryer. 5-day week. High Ridge House, Riverdale, N.Y. Cell (212) 796-4200.

With stock brokerage experience. Shorthand and typing required. Salary arranged. Call (617) 423-7200. (Mass.)

Buy Savings Bonds

EMPLOYMENT

EDUCATORS WANTED

Beginning Fall 1975

High School Music and

Drama Teacher

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES MANAGEMENT CAREER OPPORTUNITY

management people enjoy unlimited in-come potential, challenging assign-ments and outstanding benefits. If you are now engaged in management or feel you have management quali-fications, write INVESTORS DIVER-SIFIED SERVICES, Unit 60-198 IDS Tower, Minneapolis, MN 55402.

ESTABLISHED YARN/HANDCRAFT Shop. Unique. In southern Maine Owner's husband must move. A true

nvestment opportunity (207) 839-5944 Tues.-Sat. 9-5.

EARTHWORMS! GOOD PAYING

home business. Free Information. A&S Earthworms, Inc. 18536 Saratoge

Road, Los Gatos, CA 95030. Tel.: (408)

MAIL ORDER IMPORT/EXPORT

Home Business, Spare/full time. Big profits. World famous importer guides you. For FREE BOOK write Meilinger, Dept. A133B, 6100 Variel, Woodland Hills, CA 91364.

BE A SUCCESSFUL WRITER MAKE $10,000 a yr. & more. Sure-fire system to get articles published in nat'l magazines. Send for information. Hartley, Dept. 2, 5020 Winding Way, Sacramento. CA 95841 354-0035.

LOS ALTOS, CALIF. CAN GIVE it you enjoy the challenge and reward wonderful home + salary to combatile, kind, semi-ratized woman in expation, kind, semi-raized woman in ex-change for light duties caring for my and success of our nationwide com-bilind aged mother (415) 948-3588.

DESIGNER/ARTIST — GROWING advance rapidity into management. Our management occupied only unlimited in-veras, Murtaugh seems to like Frank better because of his greater range. Neither have ever hit very much. Rookie Craig Reynolds is also a possibility.

Anyway, the Pirates have no such problem at second base where Rennie Stennett, between July 24 and September 24, played through 59 games without an error. Stennett also developed into a terrific leadoff man with 196 hits, plus a .291 batting aver-

Richie Hebner, despite contract problems and a glove that was involved in 28 errors last season, is back to play third base. But there is nothing wrong with Hebner's offense, which produced 10 game-winning hits (second highest on the team), a .291 batting average and 97 runs scored.

don't know whether to convert outfielder Dave Parker into a first baseman or simply let Bob Robertson and Ed Kirkpatrick fight each other for the position. Robertson, despite a .229 overall batting average, hit well for the Pirates at the clutch-end of the potential.

Another possibility would be to return centerfielder Al Oliver to first base, where he started 49

The Pirates, at the moment,

REAL ESTATE

NEW ENGLAND

MARBLEHEAD-EXCLUSIVE ENJOY manuscenead—exclusive Enjoy the breathteking penoramic view from this home on and high above the ocean. Features tasteful modernization with utra-modern kitchen, 4 new baths, 4 bedrms, 8 much more to delight the discensing buyer. R. W. Carison Assoc., inc., Realtors (617) 631-8800. (Mass.)

Emphasis on instrumental music and band. Some choral work. Responsible for beginning drama class. Send resume to: CONCORD, MASS. 17TH CENTURY Colonial. Fully modernized. Bee-hive oven, 3 f/p's, barn, studio garage. Concord River view & approx. 2½ acres. MLS exclusive. $110,000. Mrs. Wintrhope H. Lee, Reeltor. (617) 369-3600. The Principia, 13201 Clayton Road St. Louis MO 63131

APT. HOUSE - VT.'S NORTHEAST Kindom. 7 apts. — five 4 rms., one 5 rm., one 3 rm., 7 garages; excellent neighborhood; schools, churches, stores, museum, library, art gallery within 3 blocks. Write Box H-10, One Norway Street, Boston, MA 02115.

CLAIRBOURN SCHOOL,
San Gabriel, Calif. Providing education in an atmosphere in harmony with Christian Science. We're seeking teachers for the following assignments of of of of of of are and Math background) (3) Grades 7 to 8, General Science, Algebra, Geometry (2) Grade 6 (must have English are and Math background) (3) Grades 7 to 9, English-Social Studies (4) Music Shorefront Home, 6 bdrms. & 4½ ba. (Grades 1 to 7). Cellf. teaching creditions of the control of the c move into kitchen management. We are a retirement community in Wisconsin serving Christian Scientists. We want a competent pro who will be trained to take over the top spot. Give Carlson, 1980 Commonwealth Ave., us some information about yourself Brighton, MA 02135.

HAMILTON, MASS, HUNT CLUB AREA, CARRIAGE HOUSE with large spartment, 7 box stalls. A home for you and your horses or renovate to unique residencel 6½ peaceful acres insures a future homesite with ample corral and grazing space. The most beautiful spot in town! $105,000 Exclusive. Dorothy Second. Realtor (612) clusive, Dorothy Secord, Realtor (617) 468-2920.

> SOUTHWEST TUCSON, ARIZONA

Foothili homesites — 40 acre unim-proved parcels from $990 per acre. This beautiful mountain area will, in the This beautiful mountain area will, in the near future, rival the Catalina Foothliss as a choice residential elie. These 40 acre parcels are unquestionably the most desirable in Tucson, affording unspoiled natural growth, breathteking panoramic views of the city and of the Catalinas and providing a clean environment. The seclusion resulting from the nature of the topography will always afford a high degree of privacy regardless of future development in the proximity. Buying now would reserve a proximity. Buying now would reserve a choice residential homesite in this truly magnificent foothills area. Call or write Charle Greffet, Denton Real Estate, 7041 N. Oracle Road, Tucson, AZ 85704 (602) 297-2256.

SCOTTSDALE, ARIZONA. UNDERSTATED ELEGANCE throughout this complex 2000 sq. ft. 2 bdrm. Town House. Offered well under market at $87,500 or trade for Paim Beach property. Dick Baxter (602) 948-8971. Reality Executives, 958-7200. LAND FOR SALE GOLF COURSE LOT-ARIZONA

110' front, Fountain Hills, Scottadale, Owner, 745 Southborough, West Van-couver, B.C., Canada, V7S INI. (604)

MIDWEST NORTHERN WIS. VACATION HAVEN, Log cabin, 20 acres wooded, 450 ft. lake frontage, Approx. 17 miles from Iron Mt. Mich. $32,000. (414) 231-9042. Abraham, 2910 W. 4th St. Rd. Osh

osh, Wi 54901. HAWAII MAUI, HAWAII

514 grassy acres. Tree lined ocean view subdivision. $140,000. D. Wood-burn, RR 1, Box 563-C Makawao, Maul, Hi 96768.

SOUTH ATLANTIC SCENIC BLOWING ROCK, N.C. Complete real estate service. Helen King Tellekamp, Realtor. Sunset Drive. Blowing Rock, NC 28605. (704) 285-2800 at March 1980. 7602 or Mismi 668-0440.

CALIFORNIA CALIFUMNIA

EXCEPTIONAL 2 BORM. MOBILE home, quality w/w carpets, dbl.
drapes, patio professionally landscaped, large lattice encl. porch in desirable Bayside Village, Newport Beach, Cal., pools, private beach, boat slips, $15,000. Call (714) 494-1655 or (714) 675-3969. Owner, Space 208 Tramont Dr.

- Blend of rustic & modern A-Top-A woodsy site-Ocean view. One agent. Priced at $76,500. Bolingers agents (714) 487-1761. 484-8266. (Calif.) SANTA BARBARA, CALIF. OCEAN, mountain à garden views: luxurious Town-House apt. 2 bdms. 2½ bs. in desirable BONNYMEDE condominium desirable BUNKT MEDE CONDOMINIUM adjacent to Biltmore Hotel & Coral Ce-sino. 24 hr. guard service, hasted pool, sauna, tennis courts. Price $90,000. ¼ dn. pymt. (805) 733-1458 or 391 St.

Andrews Way, Lompoc, CA 93436.

COUNTRY FRENCH OCEAN VIEW estate located on 1/2 acre in the private gated community of livine Cove between Newport Beach and Laguma Beach. Imaginative use of color and the blending of wood, brick, masonry, and imported antiques create a dramatic visual impact. Designed for family living and entertaining, composed of a children's wing with separate play yard including swings and basketball court; adult wing with master suite and study, sauna, his and hers baths, separate guest querters. Extra large billiard-tamily room with early 1800's French oak bolserie paneling, formal dining room, gourmet country kitchen and breaktast room, enclosed used brick patio, 45' swimming pool, Private sandy beach, $435,000. Colwell Banker & Co., 2151 San Joaquin Hills Rd., Newport Beach, Calif. (714) 644-9080 ask for Kathryn Raulston. COUNTRY FRENCH OCEAN VIEW

ask for Kathryn Raulsi ARCADIA-TEMPLE CITY Contact LES WEBSTER, with BECK-WITH REALTY, 107 W. Huntington Drive. (213) 446-6111. MIDDLE ATLANTIC

LAND FOR SALE PLUS ACRES IN PRESTI-122 PLUS AURES IN PRESII-glous Montgomery Co. (Laytonsville) 20 mi. from cntr./Wash. D.C. $3200/scre. Mrs. Tamzarian, 7401 Per-simmon Tree Lane, Bethesda, MD 20034 (301) 365-0071

MIDDLE ATLANTIC

WADING RIVER, LL, NEW YORK Charm. 4-rm. burgalow, 80x100 landsopd. iof. Heating. own wall, beach rights, gar, patio, low taxes. 225,000. Owner: (212) 762-2793 or Box Y-2, 588 5th Ave., N.Y.C., NY 10036.

REAL ESTATE

ROCKVILLE, MD. 4 BDRM., 3 bath, air cond., split-level, Corner lot. Large trees, prime area. Near a branch Church of Christ, Scientist. $73,950. Call (301) 926-4390.

VACATION ACCOMMODATIONS

-HOLIDAY ACCOMMODATIONS

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, FLA PONTE VEDRA BEACH, FLA. New 2 story condominium beautifully furnished. 2 bdrm. 2½ baths, screaned patio, double garage. Faces golf course and take. Tennis cts. to rear. 400 yds. to ocean beach. Widy. mald serv. $1000 month thru Feb. 28. $1240 Mar. 1-Sept. 15. Private club fees additional. Longer lease at lower rates. References required. Box J-2, One Norway $1. Boston MA 02115. way St. Boston MA 02115.

New luxury one bedrm. condo., pool, got, ocean view, serene, 45 min. Honoutu in Makesha Valley, original Oriental art decor. Color TV. $140 wk. or special long-term rate. Nellan, Box 7003, Alexandria, VA 22307. (703) 768-VICTORIA, CANADA—FURNISHED one-bedroom Apt. 3 biks. from sea. Beautiful location. Sub-let May 1-July 1. $450.00. 108/150 Douglas St., Victoria, B.C. (804) 382-8600.

HAWAII ESCAPE!

BEAUTIFUL KAUAI Weekly/monthly vacation homes on The Garden isle. For brochures write: Bonnie C. Dunford, Realtor. P.O. Box 808, Kolos, Kausi; Hawaii 96756. Phone (608) 742-0615.

PUBLIC NOTICE CITY OF BOSTON
PUBLIC HEARING
A public hearing will be held in the City Council Chamber, City Haff, on Tuesday, March 25, 1975 at 720 orciock PAL by the Committee on Ways and Means of the Soston
City Council re: the Budget of the Community School Program. CITY OF BOSTON

Crossword Quiz Answers MIDAS ACID ORC CALABASH OLIO LOIS HE KEDGE EL PES ELAPS GUST ARNESASPEN BET DR INCUR
AT ARES ETTA SPRING
CAMBODIA UTA
ARABS TIERED
ST. Germ
1540.

RENTALS APARTMENTS TO LET

COME SEE BURBANK APARTMENTS A select group of newly renovated spartments in Boston's Back Bay, Effi-ciencies & one bedrm. $170-$232. All util. incl. (617) 266-1805 (Mass.) ADVANCE ..

To Park Place, 1 bedroom apts, w/pool, garden, verandas $165/mo 152 Ross Ave., Santa Boss, Calif. (707) 528-3586.

HOUSES TO LET

EAST LANSING. OWNERSHIP CARE desired for 2 bedrm. house mr. University. Comp. furn. $250/mo. Avail. Apr. 1 or 15. Call (517) 351-0067, eves. 5-7 p.m. Box J-32, One Norway St., Boston, MA 02115. CONDOMINIUMS TO LET

RANCHO BERNARDO

Brand new Condominium.
Complete kitchen, dishwasher, washer and dryer, refrigerator, wall to wall carpeting, drapes, living room dining area, 2 bedrooms, 2 baths. Beautiful parklike 180° view. Swimming Pools and Club Membership, very convenient to bus, shoovery convenient to bus, shop-ping and churches. Carport with large storage space. Available May 1. $425.00 per

SUMMER RENTALS

Phone (714) 487-4270 (Calif.)

BELLPORT, LONG ISLAND, M.Y. Spaclous home in charming South Shore community. Walk to shope, Ilbrary, village dock with Yacht Club, ocean ferry; golf, tennis, summer theatre. House has large fiving, dining, screened porch; 2 fireplaces, 5 bedrooms, 3 beths. Completely furnished (515) 286-1048. ROOMS TO LET

BOSTON, MASS. Home away from home, cozy room near Christian Science Center. Bath and shower, Kitchen privileges. Call (817) 267-6478.

ALPHABETICAL LISTING

APPRAISALS OF ANTIQUES
Fine art. Paintings, Oriental. For es-tates, insurance or liquidation. Milton N. LUBAR (617) 734-9860 MASS.

- ARTS AND CRAFTS WELCOME SWEET SPRINGTIMES with unusual stoneware planters, pots, hanging baskets from Joan Amparan's
"City in Particular" Showcase. Open Sats. 10-5: Also dramatic wall pieces, mirrors, lamp bases, sculptures. 1429
No. Genesee, Los Angeles, Calif. 8515889.

BEAUTY SERVICES SPRING SPECIAL — PERMANENT waves only $12.95 including shampoo, set & cut. Open daily from 9-7 (a unisex shop). Chez-nous Beauty Shop, 8 St. Germain, Boston, Mass. (617) 267-

ALPHABETICAL LISTING

BUSINESS SERVICES LIFE INCOME PROTECTION. SPE-cial Program for Students of Christian Science. Edward Buskett — Combined COMPOSER lyrics and music for new recording

TV, musicals, cinerames. DREW CASE DeHEER, 2009 Regency Tower, 333 NW 5th. Okie. City, OK 73102. (405) 232-7762. Insurance Company of America, 3585 East Imperial Highway, Lynwood, Cal-dornia 90262. (213) 636-2191 PAINTING AND DECORATING CONFECTIONERS CARDINAL CO. Painting and Decorating AT 2-1256 EM 2-3919, Seattle, Washington

ONE DOZEN DOLL HOUSE OR memory box miniatures, only $1 50. (Plus one dozen Easter eggs, free!!!) Neida's Miniatures, 125 East Main. Northville, MI 48167. LIKE GOOD HOMEMADE CANDY? John M. Rosch "The Bugman," 415 No. Hoover St., Los Angeles 90004 Phone 664-2916 — CR 6-1994. Homa Phone 652-6668.

We've been making it here since 1907

- that's 68 years! Will mail anywhere.
Free brochure - Meud Borup Candies,
20 W. Fifth St., St. Paul, MN 55102. FOR SALE - MISCELLANEOUS STOP THEFT SAFETY CHAIR LOCK Heavy steel, chain-steel pipe over chain prevents cutting. Steel ring goes over door knob, long steel both into door jamb. Gold finish — IT WORKS. $4.95 + 30c postage — cash or M.O. Lorco Ent., Station 19, St. Catharines. CM Oversio Canada II. S. Catharines.

CM, Ontario, Canada. U.S.A. produc Money back guarantee. HOMES WITH ATTENTION

Are you seeking a Healing and Educational atmosphere for your son or designate? We provide — at this RESIDENTIAL FACELITY — a complete and situative programs for those presently considered developmentally deabled of all ages.

Programs to need the present needs of ambusing as well as non-ambusing; muto-hampicapped are included.

Our services and programs are accredited by the Dept. of Care of The Mother Churck, The First Church or Chitat, Scientist, Boston, Mess. The State of California has designated us as a Resident School.

Welle TODAY for a Brockure

Write TODAY for a Brook THAS CLAYTON ROAD SAN JOBE, CA 95127 (400) 258-5635 JEWELRY

HAMEDIATE CASH Diamonds, old gold, silverwar Jawelers, 61-Central Street, V 285. 235-1008. Appraisers perionos.

Meil Letters of Application and Resumes to.
Commissioner of Education
Commissioner of Education
Commissioner of Education
Commissioner of Education
102 Tremont Street
Boston, Akssechtusetts 02:11
Closing Date for Application; April 18, 1975
The Messachusetts Department of Education is at equal opportunity/sitemative action em-

"The Christian Science Monitor's Classified reached the people we wanted to reach. We had only eight callers, but of these, six rented our summer cottage." Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Sorenson Royal Cak. Mi get response.

use monitor classifieds. THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR education

The trick is not to spill the gas

Career education in decline

Special to The Christian Science Monitor

Chester, Vt. Richard C. Alexander Jr., under the watchful eyes of his father, undoubtedly is one of the youngest cooperative education students in the United States. Once when the writer visited this family-run service station young Mr. Alexander was observed reading aloud to his dad and older brother from the manufacturer's manual about repair of a certain auto part. "Read it, son. Read it," his dad called from under the car.

In the days when most children lived on farms or near a family-owned business, school-age youngsters were able to combine academics with practical skill training. But as small farms have stopped operating and fewer families run their own stores, shops, or small businesses, hundreds of thousands of urban children have had no practical business or career train-

Essential experience?

In the early 1960s an Ohio study showed that while 80 percent of all high-school students were taking college preparatory courses (presumably counseled to do so by school administrators), some 75 percent of the parents wanted both sons and daughters to have vocational/technical training.

Dicky Alexander learns some practical math making change, he improves his reading skill and vocabulary by using the car manuals, he learns patience and consideration when he fills a gas tank without spilling and wipes dirt from easily reached tail and headlights. (A bigger brother handles the windshield.)

Those who favor work/study programs or career education argue that this type of experience is essential for all schoolchildren and that Dicky should have an equal chance to try out several other types of businesses before completeing school.

Limited funds

While there is some federal money available for career education programs, it is a small amount. Generally the best programs combining in-school academics with supervised out-of-school work training are locally

The young friend pictured here is "just doing this to help out Dad."

'Met' star may sing with the high school chorus

By Kaye Stoffel Special to The Christian Science Monitor

Montclair, N.J. It all started eight years ago when Bill McClellan, head of the music department at Montclair High School, decided that his students should perform some of the major musical works considered too demanding to be included in traditional high school programs. Out of his love for young people and for music he conceived a way to mix professionals with amateurs without missing a beat.

Mac (as Mr. McClellan is fondly referred to by his students and their parents) is known also for the semiannual high school concerts in which he directs choruses of up to 800 students. But this was to be different, a seldom-done musical offering. In past years these have included Vaughan Williams' "A Sea Symphony, the Poulenc "Gloria," and the difficult but moving "War Requiem" by students would have the chance to sing and play alongside professionals. Students encouraged parents to join, and soon whole families participated. Then music lovers from neighboring communities, hearing of the project, asked to join.

Mac's School-Community Project is a remarkable undertaking. Certainly, it is a diverse mix - blue jeans and Tshirts mingle with pant suits and sport jackets. A superior court judge sings next to a high school senior, and one of the school secretaries gets to know a student's mother singing alto. Here the generation gap is nonexis-

There are no auditions; anyone may participate. But the performances maintain a professional level because of the enormous amount of work put into them. Rehearsals start in November for the March performance and are held on evenings and weekends.

Mac is able to woo a kind of musical magic from the 225 voices and 70

Members of the chorus return year after year, too. They come after their students have graduated. They come from miles away. They come regularly in spite of bad weather and the energy crisis.

The opportunity to perform with professional musicians, both in the chorus and in the orchestra, makes this an invaluable and exciting experience for both the students and the adults. Few of us can say that we have met a Metropolitan Opera tenor, let alone sung Arthur Honegger's "King David" with George Shirley as soloist. But that was the experience last year!

But whether housewife or paid soloist, student or union violinist, professionalism is the name of the game. Mac demands it, and the chorus members willingly give it. Rehearsals are a cameo experience of what students can expect if they plan to make music a career: a nononsense affair, thorough preparation, firm discipline nicely seasoned diences coming back year after year, with McClellan witticisms, unerring musical direction, and a lot of love.

"OK, all the tenors and basses can relax until the big hand gets to 9 -I'm going to work with the girls for a few minutes." Swiftly, Mac dismisses half the group so that others can get a little extra help.

He can scowl menacingly at a gum chewer or talker, or cry out in pain when his perfect pitch detects a sour note. But for those in the chorus, there is no sweeter reward than Mac's smile of approval at the close of a well-sung passage.

"They do it just for him," says Italian-born Mya Blazer, his gifted and loyal accompanist of many years. "Everybody has such a good time there's a spirit about this program that's unique."

As for Bill McClellan: "Most of these kids will never get a chance to do something like this again. They come back from college telling of new respect accorded them because they have performed this music."

OWATONNA for boys

BOYS' and GIRLS' CAMPS

Long Lake, Harrison, ME 04040

June 29-August 17
Two saparate but adjoining camps for young Christian Scientists. Where growth and fun are the way of life. A great water-front for swimming, canoeing, sailing, waterskling — all of New England for tripping. Full sports program — 6 tennis courts, archery, bloycling, team sports. Dramatics, crafts, ecology. Dedicated staft. Write for brochure:

Ask about slide show in your area

Family Camping - August 18-31

North Fork

SCHOOL OF EQUITATION Summer camp in Northern Virginia Hunt Country for 25 boys and girls 8-21 who love riding. Expert instruction and a top string of 50 horses and ponies. Campers may attend Christian Science

Send for brochure

Mrs. Katharine Russell

if you are a high school junior or senior who would like to do university workor an adult interested in a wide range of introductory or advanced courses-or a student at another college who wants to spend the summer in a new environment-then come to Stanford this summer

■ as a summer visitor you may live on campus—take courses from outstanding faculty-and enjoy the cultural and recreational benefits of the University and the San Francisco Bay Area

special programs and institutes include marine biology-mass media instituteprogram in environmental earth sciences and city and regional planning-the samuel beckett workshop admissions requirements-write or call

■ summer session visitor program / stanford, california 94305 (415) 497-2872

■ the application procedure is simple—you need not meet the usual Stanford

BOYS' CAMPS

"The Camp with the Pioneer Spirit"

FOR BOYS 7-15

Fun on a hilltop farm; swim-ming in spring fed Burr Pond fishing, canceling, water skiing riding, baseball, shop, weaving farming, woodcraft, photogra-phy, trips in the fascinating Green Mt. Cabins with fire-places.

BOOKLET

Laurence M. Smith, Director Sixter Camp Betry Cox Adjoining

Gives JOY and SPIRITUAL ENRICHMENT The Cedars Camp The Cedars Camp for Girls for Boys

NEWFOUND for girls

Mrs. John Bower, R.D. 2

Phone: (802) 462-2022

Middlebury, Vermont 05753

Two separate camps who ext together Swimming, Ricling, Nature, Sports, Float Trips, Archery, Cookouts, Crafts, Boating Excellent Staff

Rt. 2, Box 114 Purceilville

THE CEDARS CAMPS

LEBANON, MISSOURI FOR CHRISTIAN SCIENCE YOUTH

Short- or Long-Term Sessions, lequire about. The New ir, Leavership Program and the Bike Trip

PREE BOOKLET: 1025. AUTH HOFF, DIE. 119 Testeroret No., St. Look. NO 631: ($14) 821-6622 as (417) 532-8689

Camp

Manito

Pt. (213) 287-4818

MR. JACK F. TAYLOR

SAN GABRIEL CALIFORNIA

A happy camp experience for boys and girls from Christian Science homes Dedicated leadership All camp activities including water skiling, saling, cangeing, swimming, archery, horsebeck riding, crists, Write for brochure and slide show dates.

Two Sessions: Eight Days — Aug. 8-16 Tan Days — Aug. 16-25

Directors, Crystal Lake Comps R.D. ⇒1 Hughesville, PA 17737 Tel. (717) 584-2698

GIRLS' CAMPS BIG BEAR LAKE, CALIF.

LES CHALETS FRANÇAIS

FOR BOYS - FOR GIRLS

Ages 6-16 Who attend

Christian Science Sunday School

A quality program in watersports, English riding, witderness trips, mu-sic and art, environmental sware-ness, leadership traking. Post sea-son tamily camp. ACA Accredited.

Write Joe and Dottie Alford,

38TH SEASON Where French is Fun!

Deer Isle, Coastal Maine A happy, productive summer for girls 5-18; outstanding staff, excellent facilities. Elective program with opportunity to special-ize in FRENCH, ballet, drama, music, art, riding, tennis, gymnastics, campcraft, swimming, sailing on beautiful Penobscot Bay. C'est mag nifique! Precamp horsemanship clinic. Mrs. Helma M. Bush 391 Nassau St. Princeton, N.J. 08540

VERDANT VALES

osce . Its children who altered the Christian Sci-arca Science School

A well supervised program with the usual summer camp activates Cabus formiers are encouraged to contribute individual talents to the community of all ages. The 7-year-old gris and boys have as complete a pro-Teenage activities - Leadership training Buys development program ages 16 and

Family Camp - Aug. 24-28 Write. Mrs. Gloria McKisley, Orrector Box 476-M, Middlehom, CA 95461 Ph. (767) 987-3294 & 987-3009

* * SEEK OUT MONITOR ADVERTISERS PLUMFIELD

Riding (daily), tennis, swimming, sailing, water skiing, canoeing and overnight cance trips, pioneer camping and mountain climbing, arts and crafts, team sports, music and dramatics.

CONTACT: JEAN HILTON PLUMFIELD SCHOOL NOROTON, CT 06820

career?

EDUCATION GUIDE

SACRAMENTO, CA 95817

Tennessee

Military Institute

Special testing defines aptitude and ability

Grover Graves, Jr.

President, TMI

Box 124C

Ph. (615) 337-6633 (collect)

vater, TN 37874

Academic excellence

All sports

- Coed

Contact:

· Army Jr. ROTC

 "Life Preparatory" Grades 7-12 & P. Grad

PHOTOGRAPHY

GLEN FISHBACK, Inc. SCHOOL OF PHOTOGRAPHY

Free-Lance Training

(916) 455-7328 3307 BROADWAY

SWITZERLAND -- CO-EDUCATIONAL

The American School In Switzerland

COLLEGE PREPARATION IN EUROPE

American education with an international dimension • Co-educational college preparation in Lugano, Switzerland • Meets highest American academic standards • Grades 7-12 • Outstanding faculty • College testing and counseling • Ex-cellent record college acceptances • Research trips and op-tional vacation travel in Europe • Sports and activities •

M. Crist Fleming, Director. Contact: U.S. Rgtr., 326 East 69th Street, New York, New York 10021.

CO-EDUCATIONAL

Just as the rwig is bent the tree's inclined.

Daycroft School

tional ~ Day and Boarding Nursery — Gr. 12

Rock Ridge, Greenwich, CT 06830 (203) 869-7730

choosing a school

Watch the ads on the Monday Education page of The Christian Science Monitor

STAINED GLASS

Glass Institute

1975

SEMINARS

1975
SEMINA
Intermediate Seminar,
Sept. 7-20
(Amited to 16 delegates)

Advanced Senting Sept. 28-Oct. 11 (United to 16 delega-

Master Design Seminar, Oct. 12-22

ed to 10 delegates

P.O. Box 4605, Souts Fe, New Maxico 87501

HOME STUDY

IF YOU CAN DO THIS

YOU CAN LEARN TO PAINT LIKE THIS

Student's Work

The Alexander School of Painting offers you a revolutionary low-cost Home Study Course in oil painting at a price every-one can afford. It is designed for beginners, emateurs and professionals alike.

We GUARANTEE to make you a good painter or your money back. No drawing ability necessary. No salesman will call.

Alexander School of Painting Fine Arts Building, Dept. 6 Chicago, Illinois 60605

What is Berkeley Hall doing for the sons and daughters

SUMMER SESSION 1975

STATE UNIVERSITY OF

NEW YORK AT BINGHAMTON

STUDENTS - TEACHERS

Take advantage of select program at low cost on attractive campus which combines academic excellence with opportunity to visit exciting places of interest in the North East.

SUNY-Binghamton Binghamton, NY 13901

Bringing you the most exciting SUMMER of DISCOVERY ever: Six weeks of summer fun: Crafts, horsemanship, camping, swimming.

3-Year Nursery through 9th grade for children of all races who attend the Christian Science Sunday School

BERKELEY HALL SCHOOL 300 NO. SWALL DRIVE • BEVERLY HILLS, CA 90211 • 275-0197

FAMILY CAMPING CAMP SANGAMON

Swimming, sailing & relaxing on Long Lake, Harrison, Maine at Comps Newfound & Owa-

CO-EDUCATIONAL -- DAY of Christian Scientists?

Send for brochure

Housewife a dodo? Not at all

By Jo Ann Levine Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

New York

Marabel Morgan came to New York from Miami wearing a yellow suit and smiling Florida sunshine. And her publishers gave her a luncheon because she wrote the nonfiction bestseller last year and because it is still selling at the rate of 11,000 copies a

The book, "The Total Woman" (Fleming H. Revell Company, $5:95) is an account of some principles Mrs. Morgan worked out when she was trying to put her own marriage back together. ("The things that worked, I jotted down; I told my girl friends.")

Mrs. Morgan is not exactly sure why these principles worked, but they did work for her and others, and there are now 60 teachers across the U.S. teaching "Total Woman" classes to women (only) who will pay $15 for eight hours of classes. ("It doesn't require more money to make life exciting; it requires a change of attitude. And attitude is free.")

Her principles include:

 "God ordained man to be the head of the family, its president, and his wife to be the executive vicepresident.

"Accept your husband just as he is.

• "Admire your husband every day.

"Adapt to his way of life.
 "Give him your undivided attention, and try not to make any telephone calls after he comes home, especially after 8 p.m.

• 'Make homecoming a happy time. Waltzing to the door in a cloud of powder and cologne is a great confidence builder. Wear a different costume when he comes home."

costume when he comes home."

To those who feel that such onesided and feminine ploys should not have to be used in order to have a happy marriage, Mrs. Morgan is writing about the 1950s, if not the Dark Ages.

But for someone who had been taught by her mother that "all men are rotten, but if you get one, make him over," for a woman who when she said "I do" really meant, "I'll redo," Mrs. Morgan has taken some forward steps.

She emphasizes that she is writing about what she knows: young couples with children who have lost the "sizzle" out of their marriage and want to put it back in. She is not addressing herself to the facts that more than half of all women work in jobs which are too often unequally paid and unequally promoted, that women are psychologically often bound because they are not "programmed for success" and don't know how to get to the top, and at the top are often faced with a problem when they have men working for them.

Marabel Morgan, author of 'The Total Woman'

The qualities Mrs. Morgan amplifies in men — their fragile egos, their need to be the boss, their absolute right to take care of and make decisions in a family — are roles taught at an early age, roles from which many men are finding they are glad to be liberated.

Mrs. Morgan is writing primarily for women who stay at home protected by "their man." (Indeed, Mrs. Morgan calls her husband, who is an attorney, "my Charlie." When asked about this she said, "Well, he is mine.")

Mrs. Morgan said she heard that the National Organization for Women (NOW) picketed one of her talks in Minneapolis. In New York, Ms. magazine was not invited to the luncheon.

Men," by Carl Bernstein and Bob

Mrs. Morgan, a devout woman, has had some critical letters because in her book she talks openly about sex. Her book, in fact, adapts the Cosmopolitan magazine approach for snaring lovers to one for holding hus-

the subject at the table came around to Watergate wives, and Mrs. Morgan was asked what she would do if she found herself in an ethical conflict with her husband.

"If he was doing something I knew was against the law — and bad — it would certainly put me in a bind, and yet. I've committed my life to him, we are in it together. I would stick with him."

Later she said that some people had brought up the possibility that if women always gave in to their husbands, they would tramp all over them. And she said, "But you know, they don't."

She noted that her own husband became a better husband and a better

'Accept your husband just as he is . . . admire him every day . . . adapt to his way of life . . . give him your undivided attention and try not to make any phone calls after he comes home, especially after 8 p.m. . . . If your marriage is not so hot, why not try these things?'

Her publishers were protecting her from any confrontation, in spite of the fact that Mrs. Morgan appears well equipped to handle any disagreements with her philosophy in a cheerful, articulate, and unpretentious manner.

"I'm not anti-feminist." she emphasized, as the luncheon was breaking up. "I'm pro-happiness in marriage. . . . Equal pay — anybody in their right mind would have to be for that.

right mind would have to be for that. The only thing I feel badly about is that feminists have set up a nine-to-five job as an ideal for women and have made the woman at home feel like a dodo."

Mrs. Morgan paused and said, "Now we have an option . . . and it's kind of thrilling. If a woman wants to have a career, that's super. But if she also has a husband, don't let that slide. Keep priorities in order and life

At the table, Mrs. Morgan sat next to the editor in chief of Pocketbooks, which is bringing out her book in paperback either later this year or early next year. The president of the Revell Company explained that Revell publishes Protestant books by authors such as Dale Evans Rogers and Anita Bryant, and that "The Total Woman" has had its sales "west of the Hudson," but even so, sold 369,315 copies last year, almost 100,000 more than "All the President's father after she quit criticizing him, "because I was meeting his needs."

Some people have said she is "game playing" and "manipulating."

"To me, it isn't game playing." she says. "I believe in honesty, but I'm not going to say: 'You are a big fat slob.'

"I believe in flattery and anybody can do that sincerely: You married the guy, there must have been something you can flatter. But it has to be given out of a pure heart.

"When I got married," she added, "I really had an 'I' problem. I thought my way was best. But he thought his way was best, so what are you going to do? Now, it isn't that I say to my husband, 'Anything you want.' We talk it out, he knows how I feel, I know how he feels. But if something comes up, something big, I'm going to go his

As her publishers were passing out long-stem roses (the symbol of the "Total Woman" but also coincidentally the symbol for the Right-to-Life movement), she stayed to answer the question, Why should the woman do everything?

"Someone has to make the first move. If your marriage is not so hot, why not try these things? If he doesn't respond, he may be a crumb or mentally ill. But this is still the way to live. And it's right to do what is right."

Celebrities changing attitudes about hats

By Phyllis Feldkamp Special to The Christian Science Monitor

New York

Signs point toward an upturn in hat wearing. Millinery bars in the stores are busier and busier and lately, several celebrated and confirmed non-hat wearers have done an aboutface.

Among them are Pauline Trigere, the designer, Nancy Kissinger, the Secretary of State's wife, and Kitty Carlisle, the actress, singer, and hard-working board member of a number of institutions in New York.

Miss Trigere's reversion to hats began when she wore a turban one night to the theater — mostly, she admits, because she had not had time to get to the hairdresser. Since she usually wears glasses, a brimless style seemed to her the only line that would be right for her. But after her trial run with the turban, she was encouraged to ask Frank Olive, who does the hats she has always shown with her collections, to make up a personal cloche for her travel wardrobe.

Designer Olive describes her cloche as "contoured with a little brim and medium depth crown that nestles into her hair comb."

The soft, pliable hat that can be folded or rolled for packing and can be changed around to be worn several ways is the type that is gaining acceptance most easily. The beret, the helmet, the turban, and quilted or plain versions of the tennis or crew hat are the biggest sellers at hat bars.

Felt with a brim

Nancy Kissinger's style of hat (she ordered two from Don Kline) is a casual felt with a brim that can be turned up in front, off the face, or at one side. Mrs. Kissinger's noted head had been covered, up to now, only for wind-protection with a scarf tied peasant-fashion.

Designer Bill Blass prodded Kitty Carlisle Hart into trying hats again by sending her to see Don Kline. She immediately liked a small felt hat with a shallow crown and small brim which she wears tilted to the right. Now she has four of the same spectator-shape felts in different colors and is persuading all her friends to wear hats again.

Cartwheels, maybe?

However, the hatters hope women rejoining the ranks of the be-hatted will try wider brims this spring and summer, with 10 to 12 inch cartwheels not considered unrealistic.

Open-work straws are the newest types — mesh, net, and holey crochet effects that give the widest brim a look of airiness. A single rose or sprig of daffodils shows the new restraint in trimming. In Paris, the crochet hat took the form of a beret or squashy, pull-on cloche.

Among the other kinds of casual headgear are combinations of scarf and brim (or visor) and pre-draped scarves that give the same effect (with less effort) of the popular head wraps. Scarves as head coverings have never gone away, so the milliners are figuring if you can't beat 'em, join 'em.

Sketch by designer Don Kling

Kitty Carlisle's felt spectator

Actress Cornelia Sharpe wears panama by Frank Olive

Sketch by designer Don Kline

Scarf crown, straw brim by Don Kline

1877

BAILEY'S CHOCOLATES FOR EASTER...!

For 101 years we have made our own hand dipped chocolates which we believe are the finest available.

At Easter we pack them in decorated paper mache eggs and in colored Easter baskets which we mail to customers all over the world.

Won't you stop in at one of our six stores before Easter? Telephone us at 426-4560 and we will be pleased to send you a brochure without charge, listing all of our can-

Temple Place, Boston 392 Boylston St., Boston 21 Brattle St., Cambri 30 Boylston St., Chestnut Hill 93 Central St., Welles Suburban Stores Open Sundays and Every Evening

Don't wear short skirt to Zanzibar

By Reuter

Wearing a short skirt while visiting the Indian Ocean island of Zanzibar can be dangerous — but not because of mosquitoes, animals, or weather.

Because of strict Muslim laws, a short-skirted visitor could be apprehended and either severely warned or worse — have her head shaved or receive four strokes of a cane.

If she thinks quickly enough the visitor can claim her short skirt is part of her national costume.

But to be safe she should obey a decree of the island's ruling Revolutionary Council, which stipulates the exact length: "an imaginary line drawn horizontally around the leg. each point of which is exactly midway bwtween the lowermost part of the kneecap and the uppermost part of the ankle."

Behind this dress rule lies an intricate piece of legal drafting that shows the Zanzibar Government's concern for almost every detail of the lives of its 350,000 citizens.

The Revolutionary Council, under the chairmanship of Zanzibar's leader. Aboud Jumbe, with traditional Muslim fervor has chosen to give moral as well as political guidance.

The dress rule with its splendid detail, more than four pages of small print, is entitled: "A decree to safeguard national culture and Protect it from such undesirable fashions in dress, hairstyles etc., as are not conducive to national culture and to provide for matters ancillary thereto."

Other decrees are equally as detailed. A government directive that everyone must cultivate a plot of land is headed: "A decree to rally together the peoples of Zanzibar and Pemba to mobilize all available human resources to combat the threat of a world food shortage by increasing production on a planned basis."

The man largely responsible for drawing up these documents is the Englisheducated attorney general, Wolfgango Durado.

Zanzibar, in a general review of the structure of the courts following the overthrow of the former rule of the Sultan of Zanzibar in 1964, imposed "peoples justice," which made the man in the street both jury and judge and abolished the legal profession.

The main criticism Zanzibar faces from both its partner in the union of Tanzania, mainland Tanzania, formerly Tanganyika, led by President Julius Nyerere, and Western countries, is that defendants are not allowed legal coursel. The state acts as both prosecutor coming features

BEAUTIFUL WEATHER DRAMATIC SCENERY

San Diego testivals skiing in Hawaii camping in Alaska — the Monitor explores the delights of vacationing in Western states. A special feature with travel tips, maps, photos.

TUESDAY, MARCH 25

AND HOMEMAKER
One of the biggest headline-

SUPERB SINGER

makers to hit grand opera in decades is soprano Rita Hunter, whose performances are already booked through 1980, lan Woodward finds her a real homebody, with "no airs" about her as he chats with this star about the international music scene, and her own life and career.

THURSDAY, MARCH 27

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

ملناسه لنص

Three poems by Werner Aspenstrom Translated by W. H. Auden and Leif Sjoberg from the Swedish

Among high towers and masts

Too many towers on the mountains are classified as top secret! Too many telescopes are hidden behind the clouds! Who expects anything good from the submarines exploring the deep?

like a cricket under the northern lights, poetry flashes its warning to a humanity advancing across the radar screen.

Icarus and the boy Greystone

Having read 78 (excellent) poems on Icarus, I wish to put in a word for his country cousin, the boy Greystone, left behind on the meadow, also to speak on behalf of a grassy hillock, . enjoying both shade and shalter from the wind.

Having read 78 poems about flight and wings, I wish to pay homage to the sole of the foot, to all directed downwards, to the art of staying in place and possessing weight - like the boy Greystone, or his sister, the stay-at-home daughter, Miss Spruce-Bush who lacks histre but stays forever green.

Viadov pulled a siedge

A glant I was, a glant's strength I had, when I put the Cathedral and the Imperial Palace onto the sledge, and marched off onto the snowy plain. I wanted to abolish inequity. The further I pulled, the smaller I became. I upturned the sledge with everything on it and hurried away. By then I was very tiny. Whereupon, behind me, the bells began to chime. The crystal chandeliers in the Palace lighted up. Statues, sercophagi and little onion churches aprang up around me. There, as I stood on the edge of the forest, I beheld inequity; shining unaltered. To abolish it will be a task for my children.

How do you write poetry?

I wish myself many children; stern giants, all of them.

The other day someone asked me how I write poems. Well, that's what I want to know too. The truth is, I don't understand where poems come from or why - and I'm sometimes as curious as the next critic as to what my own poems mean.

Behind my interrogator's question lay a feeling that, as the poet who had written them, I ought to be in possession of some magic word which would make the poems fly open to admit him. What such an attitude leaves out of account is the fact that the only "magic" word is the one that begins the poem, the unromantic abracadabra by which the poet invokes the truth. There's no other way into a poem than through that first word which opens a process of poetic thinking which the poet shares with his readers.

Let me put it this way: My poems are the moments of my-most urgent being. What do I mean by "being"? I mean to feel and to know at the same ime, which for me is the point where words become so sharp and the poem so real that should I write. say, the word "rose" and suddenly smell that rose, or prick my fingers on its thorns, I should not doubt my sanity. If this seems nonsense, recall the vividness of your own most memorable dreams when imagination became furious and exact, creating images certainly more real to you than the pillow you slept upon. Of course there is a difference between poems and dreams, a difference which I might express in a definition of inspiration: Inspiration is falling awake:

I am aware that what I'm saying does not constitute a particularly credible or creditable view of poetry, or of the poetic impulse, as seen by students of linguistics. Inspiration has never been popular, except in a sentimental way. The idea of a poet writing he knows not what, often for he knows not whom. in a state of semi-trance, or even in sleep itself, will be treated with suspicion by my contemporaries. And they will be right. I can only assure them that I view the product of these trances with even more suspicion than they do,

For me, the writing of poems is based on a large trust in inspiration it happens — tempered by a large mistrust for the actual poem when it has been written down. The whiteness of pages is an antidote to ecstasy. I de not believe in automatic writing - although I can think of some poems that were composed neously, coming right first time and needing no application of the ratiocinative intelligence to take them through draft after draft in search of that impossible perfection which each necessarily imperfect poem "proves." "Kubla Khan" is the finest example of such a completely inspired poem. It came to Coleridge in a dream. It is also a poem about inspiration:

Weave a circle round him thrice, And close your eyes with holy dread, For he on honey-dew hath fed, And drunk the milk of Paradise.

I would say this: No good poem was ever written which was the product wholly of the poet's conscious mind, when he sat down knowing the last line before he wrote the first, or when he worked out the last line, and the lines between, from his own wit, cumingly applied, out of a desire to make a poem of some experience which he thought suitable poetic material, or out of some idea that appealed to him and which he considered could be turned into an impressive bit of verse, or out of ambition to tinker with metres or experiment with techniques. The only things written in this fashion are, precisely, impressive poems that is, verses written to impress first the poet himself with his own cleverness and verbal ingenuity, and second to impress his public, which nowadays seems to mean mostly his colleagues.

I'd say that one of the reasons why few people read poems these days is the dulling, blunting effect of the poems produced for nonpoetic reasons by persons versifying their prosaic thoughts.

This is not an argument in favor of obscurity. But it is an argument for a poet being a kind of secretary to something more than his own little Self; and for a poem being an inspired truthful utterance, not a game played with words and ideas.

Robert Nye

Robert Nye is also poetry critic for The Times (London).

The Monitor's daily religious article

Overcoming self-doubts created by God, divine Mind.

We trust goods not to let us down if they have a reliable maker's name on them. The character of a sound manufacturer is revealed in the consistently good quality of his prod-

Much more can man, as God created him, be depended on, because his Maker is perfect.

Men and women - children too - who are tempted to believe they can't do well in their necessary tasks are accepting a mortal, materialistic view of themselves. But this false concept of man leaves out of account the presence and power of God, our heavenly Father.

Christ Jesus was always conscious of his unity, or sonship, with God. "I and my Father are one," he said. And he showed how all were united with God.

Christian Science reveals God as Mind and man as His idea, the Crippling self-doubts can be Himself. We are all included in overcome by knowing that we are God's man. The real identity of each of us is actually spiritual, reflecting the love, intelligence, and goodness of God. When we understand that in reality we reflect these qualities, how can we not trust in our ability?' Mind is the constant and eternal source of strength, love, intelligence.

Any view of man as physical is false, for it presupposes that God, divine Spirit, the opposite of matter, created material bodies, contrary to elementary logic that like begets like.

Indeed, we are told in the Bible that God made man in His own likeness, giving us inspired assurance that we are, in our true spiritual selfhood, His image or reflection.

The Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, writes, "Man is God's image and likeness; whatever is possible to God, is possible to man as God's reflection."

As we begin to understand, even faintly, that we aren't limperfect spiritual expression of ited physical persons, but ideas of all-powerful divine Mind, we naturally become more confident and capable in our daily jobs and contacts. We cultivate the habit of listening to God, knowing that His power, wisdom, and intelligence are with us every minute. They are able to prompt us to sound decisions, hearten us to persevere in good enterprises, show us the good in others, and replace the fuss and anxiety of isolated personal striving with the peace and serenity of God-inspired activity for the good of all.

Giving up human self-will, we can increasingly know ourselves as sons and daughters of God. We can see our work and responsibilities as opportunities to express the Godlike qualities of love, justice, honesty.

Such qualities, active in our lives, dispel self-doubts. We become more confident.

John 10:30; Genesis 1:26; Miscellaneous Writings, p. 183.

[Elsewhere on the page may be found a transition of this article in Hungarian. Twice a year an article on Chris-tian Science appears in a Hungarian translation.]

[This is a Hungarian translation of today's religious article]

Ennek a veltágos citársek angol eradetja ugyanezen az oldalon telélhaki Mácosar forditás évente kátazar jalenik magi

Az önbizalom hiányának legyőzése

Az önbizalom hiányának gátló érzetét legyőzhetjük, ha tudjuk, hogy benninket Isten, az Isteni Elme teremtett.

Bizunk abban, hogy nem csalódunk az olyan áruban, amelyen megbizható készitő neve van feltüntetve. Az előállitó megbizhatósága felismerhető abból, hogy állandóan jóminőségű árut készit.

Mennyivel inkább lehet az emberben, Isten teremtményében bizni. mert hiszen az ő Alkotója tökéletes. Férfiak, asszonyok és gyermekek is, akiket az a hiedelem kisért, hogy nem tudnak megfelelni feladatuknak, halandó, anayagi nézetet fogadnak el magukról. De ez a hamis felfogás az emberről figyelmen kilétét és hatalmát. Krisztus Jézus mindig tudatában volt Istennel való egységének és Fiuságnak. Ő azt mondta: "Én és az Atya egyek vagyunk" i és megmutatta, hogy mindnyájan egyek

vül hagyja mennyei Atyánk jelen-vagyunk Istennel. A Krisztusi Tudomány* Istent, mint Elmét, az embert pedig mint az ő eszméjét, vagyis tökéletes szellemi kifejezését tárja fel. Isten emberében mindnyájan benne vagyunk. Mindegyikünk igazi azonossága valójában szellemi és Isten szeretetét, intelligenciáját és jóságát tükrőzi vissza. Ha megértjük, hogy a valóságban visszatükrözzük ezeket

u tulajdonságokat, miert ne tudnánk bizni saját képesságeinkben? Az Elme az erőnek, a szeretetnek és az intelligenciának állandó és őrők forrása.

Bármilyen nézet amely az embert minden pillanatban velünk van. fizikainak tekinti, hamis, mert feltételezi, hogy Isten, az isteni Szellem, az anyag ellentéte, anyagi testet teremtett, az elemi logikával ellentétben, mely szerint hasonló hasonlót hoz létre.

Valóban, a Biblia azt tanitja hogy Isten az embert saját hasonlatosságára teremtette,² amiből azt az ihletett bizonyságot nyerjük, hogy a mi igazi szellemi énünk az ő képmása, vagy visszatükröződése. A Krisztusi Tudomány felfedezője és megalapitója, Mary Baker Eddy, a következőket irja: "Az ember Isten képe és hasonlatossága; ami lehetséges Istennek, az lehetséges az embernek is, mint Isten visszatükröződésének." *

Ha csak halványan is, de elkezdjük megérteni, hogy nem korlátozott fizikai személyek vagyunk hanem a mindenható isteni Elme eszméi, akkor természetszerüleg bizakodóbbak leszünk és napi munkánk elvégzésére, kapcsolataink megszilárdítására alkalmasabbak. Gyakorlatunkká válik, hogy Istenre figyeljünk tudva, hogy az ő hatalma, bölcsessége és intelligenciája

Daily Bible verse

the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God, I John 3:1

Behold, what manner of love

Ezek józan elhatározásokra késztetnek bennünket, bátorságot öntenek belénk a jóra való kitartásban, megláttatják velünk a jót másokban, az elszigetelt személyi versengés nyugtalanságát, aggódásait felcserélik az Istentől ihletett működés békéjével és nyugalmával mindenki javára.

Az emberi önakaratot feladva fokozottan megismerhetjük önmagunkat, mint Isten fiait és leányait. Munkánkat és kötelezettségeinket alkalomnak tekinthetjük a szeretet, igazságosság, becsületesség isteni tulajdonságainak kifelezésere. Ezekkel a tulajdonságokkal élve, eloszlatjuk az önbizalom hiányát. Bizakodóbbak leszünk.

¹ János 10:30; ² Mozes I, 1:26; ³ Míscellaneous Writings, 183 old. 12-14.

Christian Science: elted Knaztien Spiloner

Being all are

that you

Within the heart of every man, woman, and child is a deep-seated desire for fulfillment. Many have found that a more-alive understanding of the Bible has released God-given talents. They have begun to understand their capabilities as the children of God.

Would you like to understand more of this for yourself?

A book that can help you fulfill your promise as the child of God is Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy. This is a book that speaks to the heart in simple, direct terms of the truths of God's goodness and power, His ever-present love. In Science and Health you can learn more about God as the source of intelligence, vision and strength for all His sons and daughters. You can find freedom to be what you are.

If you'd like to have a paperback copy of Science and Health just send £1.07 with the coupon to:

Miss Frances C. Carlson Publisher's Agent 4-5 Grosvenor Place, 8th Floor, London SWIX 7JH Please send me a paperback copy of Science and Health with Key to the My cheque for $1.07 enclosed as payment in full.

Shadows and expression

There is considerable evidence that Michelangelo was opposed to the whole idea of portraiture: the actual physical appearance of an individual could rarely, if ever, approach the "perfection" that his ideal of physical beauty demanded. In his book "Michelangelo's Theory of Art," Robert J. Clements discusses the great artist's attitude toward "likenesses" at some length, and then discounts the likelihood that Michelangelo ever made a portrait of Andrea Quaratesi. Frederick Hartt is still more diamissive in his volume on the artist's drawings; evidently he doesn't think it is even worthwhile discussing his reasons for rejecting this extraordinary drawing in the British Mu-

The museum however continues to label it "Michelangelo" and maintains that it is indeed, as tradition has it, a portrait of Andrea at about the age of 20. The young man was a friend of the artist and a member of a distinguished Florentine family.

It is Professor Johannes Wilde who, in the museum catalog, argues the case for the drawing. "The technique," he maintains, is "a complex, a laborious combination of fine parallel strokes and stippling . . . which Michelangelo evolved in the later 1520s. . . . As far as we know [tt] was not used by any other artist at this time."

Faced with the drawing itself, of course, the questions who by? and who of? do not matter much. It would be difficult to argue that this is anything other than a profoundly sensitive portrait. The face is one on which shadows and changes of expression seem to play with equal subtlety. Nuance is precisely the right word for this

The drawing catches with acute truthfulness the transition from childhood to adulthood. Is he boy or man? It could only be the work of an artist who believed implicitly that the features and mood of a face can evince to a considerable degree the inward life of a person, and that the artist's vision can penetrate deep below the surface at the same time as depicting that surface. By any standard this is a compelling, emotive and even alightly disturbing work. And something lifts it out of the particularity of portraiture, and certainly out of mere period, into a compassionate aptness.

Christopher Andreae

Courtery of the Department of Prints and Drawing in the British Museum, London

Detail of "Andrea Quaratesi" 1530: Black chalk drawing by Michelangelo

Gem-tactics

Given this iewel before I knew bead of paste from gem of true; I spend the years since early chance earning a pearl inheritance.

Norma Farber

And so to be heard

Someone has just sent to me in a little box a bell so diminutive that it must have been intended for the throat of a cowslip rather than a cow.

"This," is written on the accompanying card, "you are to wear under your chin. Then when you disappear again we'll be able to tell where it is you've gone."

I hold, between fingertips, a tongued thing.

Hanging, it has surprising weight. Shaken, it emits miniscule but trus a clear note.

It's a bell all right! A real bell!

Tiny sister to all those great gongs known from Canterbury to Krakow to Jerusalem itself:

all the thunderings of bronze on a world's heart.

Doris Peel

CE Mi

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

"First the blade, then the ear, then the full grain in the ear"

Monday, March 24, 1975

The Monitor's view

Opinion and commentary

PUBLISHED BY THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE PUBLISHING SOCIETY

Now to Geneva

A psychological blow to peace has been dealt by Henry Kissinger's setback in the Middle East. In the face of it, it is important that President Ford now keep the United States initiative and role alive. He can do this by urging that the whole negotiation now be shifted to Geneva and promising that Washington will work to make it a success.

It is a deep disappointment that Dr. Kissinger's latest mission ended in failure. The Secretary's emotional words on his departure from Tel Aviv attest to the depth of his own regret and to the earnest effort made to bring Egypt and Israel to another agreement. No one could have tried harder.

The "irreconcilable" differences between the two are understandable. Israel insisted on an Egyptian assurance of nonbelligerency, hoping to neutralize Egypt in the event of another war. It overestimated, however, what President Sadat, who cannot move out ahead of the other Arab leaders, could reasonably give.

The blunt fact is that the threat of war is the biggest club which the Arabs hold over the Israelis. To give that up deprives them of their leverage. They can give it up only once — at the time of a final peace settlement.

It is possible that the developments in Indo-China have affected the mood in the Middle East, hardening Israel's position.

Israel is not Indo-China, of course. Support for Israel in Congress is strong and has domestic political roots. Yet how Congress will deal with repeated Israeli aid requests as time goes on is not certain. The attitude of some lawmakers already is changing.

This makes it all the more urgent that the diplomatic momentum not be lost. But at this stage it looks as if the Kissinger step-by-step air-shuttle approach will no longer work. Elements within Israel do not want it to work and many Arabs, too, are saying that a resumption of the Geneva conference would be pref-

Such a conference may not end in the total breakdown that many people fear. It would address the issue of a full settlement, without which it is difficult for Israel to make concessions. It could begin immediately with the creation of a framework under which subgroups would be set up to deal with specific issues.

The question of Israeli recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization need not arise. The integration of the Syrian and PLO military commands means the PLO could sit with a Syrian delegation at Geneva, a formula Israel

It goes without saying the U.S. would play a key part. It would have to work on the Russians to play a constructive rather than a spoiler role. It would also be needed as middle-man in negotiations between Israel and the Arabs. Henry Kissinger would have to involve himself from the beginning, helping to set up the framework and then working on the sidelines on specific problems.

At the moment the situation needs to be sorted out and analyzed. But, whatever the next step, it is to be hoped that Washington quickly conveys its determination to continue the quest for a peaceful solution of this most anguishing conflict.

Boston's new school plan

"The plan appeals to the best in Boston," said a Justice Department official after an imaginative and conciliatory new plan for desegregating Boston's public schools was announced last week. And that appeal must be responded to by all segments of the community as the plan goes through a process of debate and revision before the federal court approves a final plan for next fall.

Though the plan takes account of Boston's particular circumstances, it speaks to the nation in its efforts to bring compromise out of conflict - conflict not peculiar to Boston but dramatically ironic there among all the historical echoes of American freedom.

The plan displays political sensitivity by drawing on constructive aspects of the other variously motivated plans before the court. By calling on universities and businesses for educational aid, it takes a large step toward that fuller involvement of Boston's rich resources which has been so much needed and desired in improving Boston's schools.

On the strife-torn question of compulsory busing of students, the plan estimates a reduction to 10,700 to 14,900 students — less than the present 17,000 and far less than the 31,000 projected in one estimate for the fall. The question is whether this will be enough to defuse the anti-busing tensions sufficiently so that the business of

Tax-cut dispatch

By historical standards, Congress has moved rather quickly on its tax-cut legislation, expected to reach Mr. Ford's desk by mid-week. But the hassle over the oil depletion allowance, pet target of liberals and others seeking to close tax loopholes, was waged at too great a price in delay. Also, the many special relief items in the Senate bill, such as $500 million for money-losing corporations, would have been better considered under separate legislation.

As it is, the Senate and House conferees this week are faced with something of a tax-relief Christmas tree as represented in the two chambers' bills, particularly the Senate's. Differences in the size of the tax cuts proposed are of no great concern. Warnings about producing another round of inflation would have to be placed not on these tax-cut steps but on a larger picture of congressional spending, which would be etchedin as the year progresses.

presumably could accept.

education can go on without massive police measures. Unfortunately, some anti-busing voices have immediately opposed the plan - or indeed any compulsory busing. The time has surely come when they should refrain from obstructing a reasonable, forward-looking plan for compliance with the law — even while continuing to work, if they choose, through legislative and judicial channels for achieving their own ends.

> The masters' plan for reducing busing includes the setting up of community districts with varying proportions of white and minority students, instead of strict racial balance throughout the city. This raises legal questions which the court will have to decide.

Also, even though races are mixed, Boston schools will still have little mixing of economic classes - which could work against the improvement of education envisaged in the plan.

There are various pitfalls. University representatives will have to be sensitive in going into schools. They won't always know best. And all the improvement in education in the world will be undercut if graduates still cannot

But the important thing is that an enormously complex and emotional subject has been addressed here with thoughtfulness and goodwill. It should provide a strong basis for going forward.

It is not to understate the importance of fast tax-cut action to point out that government monetary policy - which fortunately has grown more expansive of late - is even more critical for halting the recessionary plummet or setting the stage for another round of inflation later on. It is not chiefly congressional dallying that has allowed the economy to drop to a point where a year's gross national product will be lost between 1975 and 1980, according to Joint Economic Committee of Congress estimates. White House and federal reserve board policies are more responsible for this.

But now is Congress's hour to set a responsible fiscal course through tax legislation. Tax cuts and rebates would get more cash into the public's hands. This would come as a reprieve to a citizen whose real income has dropped steadily for a long time, and it would reinforce the stimulus of the Fed's more liberal policy.

A pitcher that goes too often to the well . . .

Let's think

Rarely has public opinion in the United States spoken more decisively than it is speaking now against further American military support of the civil war in Cambodia, and almost as vigorously, in Vietnam. And Congress is listening.

Now, as it has been for several years, it is "war in the living room" which informs and inflames public opinion. The sight of wounded mothers and starving children has brought atrocities to the supper tables of the United States as never before. Americans have come to feel that prolongation of the war itself must be the worst evil, whatever happens in Cambodia when the Khmer Rouge takes over, or in Vietnam if the North Vietnamese take Saigon. In a civil war, either you get som kind of stalemate - as in divided countries like Korea - or one side wins. The vast resources, and the lives, the United States has poured into Indo-China have not sufficed to enable the side we support to win.

Military complaints

Many American military people say that they were not permitted to use the right measures to "win." Others say that the elements we supported did not have the makings of success and stability. Corruption and weakness were rampant. There was also dogged determination and immense popular fear of the North Vietnamese. The tide of refugees has flowed in only one direction.

There should have been a political

The last act By Erwin D. Canham

Vietnam. It was anticipated in the Paris peace settlements that political negotiations would follow. But they have been fruitless. The Paris terms were violated outrageously on both sides. In Cambodia, the expulsion of Prince Sihanouk was an obvious blunder. He alone seemed capable of managing a political compromise. What happens next, after what would seem to be the inevitable fall of Phnom Penh, is grimly obscure.

There is no doubt that the convictions of two distinguished American Generals should have been followed: Gen. Douglas MacArthur when he said the United States should never get involved in a land war on President - Dwight D. Eisenhower when he firmly vetoed recommendations of his own Secretary of State, joint chiefs of staff, and Vice-President, that the United States should enter the Indo-China war to rescue the French.

Preventing holocaust

In Cambodia, the present goal must be humanitarian: hopefully some arrangement with Prince Sihanouk (with the Chinese behind him) to prevent a human holocaust.

In Vietnam, the Thieu government - in the face of gross military violations of the peace agreement by the North - has withdrawn painfully to more defensible positions. Despite solution, in Cambodia as well as in American public opinion, there seems considerable support for the United States to continue providing the munitions supply for the arms we have given the Vietnamese. Such vigorous critics of the war as the New York Times say it would be unconscionable to withhold this kind of aid. American generals say the low level of this aid has helped reduce the Thieu government to its present plight. But in any event, Congress is certainly responding to loud and clear American convictions when it refuses to prolong the war in Cambodia. Humanitarian aid would be available generously to the tragic Cambodians if this is possible even after collapse of the Lon Nol government in Phnom

The tiger's tail

There is no easy way to let go the tiger's tail in Indo-Chine. The last act in the melodrama is perhaps the most tragic. Political opportunities to work out compromises, such as the one which has succeeded in Lace, have been missed. Even now, in South Vietnam, political solutions should still be sought through a broadening of the government. Americans have not begun, it seems to me, to learn all the lessons they should from the Indo-China experience. We need to think through for ourselves and make clear to the world our basic commitment to freedom and order. The next time around, we must look carefully down the slope before we start to slide, and limit our obligation to what we can reasonably expect to fulfill.

'Managing Our Planet' price of Arab oil or increase the Readers write

Reading Takashi Oka's splendid five-part series, "Managing Our Planet." I was impressed by the need - and the promising opportunity we have before us - to realize a workable sense of oneness in the world community. Brotherhood is no longer a lofty hope, but a moral imperative. and a daily necessity. Dire need to share the earth's resources and to help one another now shows us plainly to see "enemies" as friends, and all mankind as partners in saving our planet.

Jane Huelster Hanson Glendale, Calif.

Most wasted fuel

A recent editorial titled "Better a gas tax" contained an important error of fact. It claimed that "gasoline is the fuel component most wastefully used." A little reflection will show that natural gas, our most convenient fuel, is most wastefully

It is commonly acknowledged that gas-stove pilot lights consume over 30 percent of the gas burned. A higher price on gas would be some inducement to housewives to use matches or to stove manufacturers to put in electric-spark ignition systems. I live in an apartment which does not have storm windows. How many apartments do? A higher price of the fuel - whether gas or off - would be an inducement for the landlord to put in storm windows.

If your editorial could reduce the U.S. must find ways of reducing the use of fuel and encouraging the production of oil substitutes such as gasified coal. Only an increase in the cost of oil and gas will accomplish that end. New York James J. Whitsett Democrats and primaries Some of the recent items appearing on your editorial page relating to the production of U.S. gas it would be wonderful. But in the real world the politics of the Democratic presidential nomination seem rather off the mark. The suggestion has been made that since individuals like Humphrey. Muskie, and Kennedy are not expected to enter the Democratic primaries, the primaries will not mean much. Considering the fact that 30 states will host primaries in 1976 and that over 50 percent of the convention votes will come from primaries, it appears that those candidates who deliberately eschew the primaries will be eliminating themselves from contention.

Also, considering the present proliferation of Democratic candidates, and considering the strong possibility of a Wallace candidacy, the most likely convention at this time would seem to be a convention deadlocked Such a likelihood will bring to the fore a bevy of new power brokers: the black caucus, the state chairmen's caucus, the governors' caucus, possibly a women's caucus, and the like. Where all this will leave the so-called "dark horse" candidates remains to be seen, but it may well leave the Democratic Party a long way from the dreams of the now-defunct McGovern-Fraser Commission.

Gary J. Buckley Assistant Professor of Political Science Northern Arizona University Flagstaff, Ariz.

New Hampshire Senate seat

The biggest election fraud since the 1960 presidential election is being quietly perpetrated by the United States Senate Democratic leadership. Not content with 61 seats, the Senate Democrats have apparently decided to take a Senate seat from the people of New Hampshire through brute

Even though he was the official winner under state law, Louis Wyman realized what was needed: a new election, and he called for one. Democrat Durkin, however, realized where his strength lay: a party-line vote in the U.S. Senate.

Common sense and fair play dictate that a new election be held to give the people of New Hampshire the opportunity to pick their senator. The Senate Democrats, however, have apparently decided that a sixty-second Democrat in the Senate is more important than either common sense or fair play. Patrick J. Allen Oak Park, Ill.

Letters expressing readers views are welcome. Each receives editorial consideration though only a selection can be published and none individually acknowledged. All are subject to condensation.

Reporting the peccadilloes of public men

Washington The post-Watergate emphasis on public morality, together with the Wilbur Mills affair, has made a social-hour conversation piece of this question: Has the public the right to know about the private peccadilloes of public figures? The question is prompted in great part by the widely accepted assumption that Washington is a swinging town with numerous public figures drinking and behaving immorally some outside the public eye and some blatantly in the open.

A veteran observer of Washington's mores, bureau chief Peter Lisagor of the Chicago Daily News, accepts the thesis that this kind of personal behavior is indeed prevalent in Washington - but he takes some exception to the question. "The premise of the question," he says, "is that Washington is a Sodom and Gomorrah, a den of iniquity, a city of sin - and it simply isn't true. This is a square town, a 10 o'clock town. The womanizing and drinking go on. But it is much worse in cities like Chicago, New York, Dallas - in any city where the corporate structure prevails. This city is getting a bad rap.'

But Mr. Lisagor agrees that public servants bear special watching, and he takes the position that there are times when public officials' private acts should be reported: "I say his private life should be invaded whenever what the person does interferes. with his public life."

This Lisagor-expressed standard of when to publish and when not to publish is a generally accepted doctrine here. But Des Moines Register bureau chief Clark Mollenhoff underscores the difficulty in applying this standard: "The problem," he says, 'is in interpreting which acts relate to the official life and which are clearly part of the private life. It is a matter of judgment. It is inevitable that what one does in private life has an effect on his public life. The question is whether it has a harmful influence on the public life."

Several newsmen say the press should not sensationalize. Several also caution in this vein; "We have to be extremely careful with this kind of story. We must lean over backward to make certain our facts are right. We certainly shouldn't hurt anyone."

How about the question of "protecting" public figures by not printing stories that should be printed? Says Lisagor: "Now there are reporters who are cozy with public officials and protect them when the public really should be hearing about their private acts. But, on the whole, these things do get reported in this town."

Elleen Shanahan of the New York Times takes the position that all private acts of public officials should be subject to publication. "My own view," she says, "Is as long as we pretend to tell a lot about the personal lives of public officials — about their wives, children, golf scores, etc. - we are committing a fraud if we don't also print the things they don't want known about themselves - even when these things don't affect their work."

Columnist Jack Anderson emphasizes the judgmental burden placed upon the reporter in knowing when to write. "My rule," he says, "Is that the private lives of public officials are their own business unless what they do interferes with their public performance. This means I have to be the judge. I haven't always been a good judge. I have tried to be. But I have made mistakes in deciding what the public should know and what is pure gossin."

Robert Boyd, bureau chief here of Knight Newspapers, puts the problem in perspective. 'This is one of the classic cases," he says, "of two good principles in conflict: the need for information and the people's right to know as against the person's right of privacy."

Courts for years now have been ruling that public figures such as athletes, entertainers, and politicians give up much of their right to privacy when they decide to live in the limelight of public attention. Also, since the Supreme Court ruling in the New York Times v. Sullivan case a few years back, it is clear that a newspaper has little to fear about committing libel against a public figure. So hardly anything would seem to deter newsmen and newspapers from reporting on the private peccadilloes of public officials.

Several newsmen see new attitudes taking over on the privacy-and-thepress question. Their assessment:

In this post-Watergate climate it will be much more difficult for public figures to "get away" with committing acts that harm their public performance. The press will be much more diligent in reporting such acts. And the public will be much quicker to discipline (through the election process) those politicians whose private acts are impairing their ability to do the job they were elected to do.

Mr. Sperling is chief of the Washington bureau of The Christian Science Monitor.

المعارف والإسلام ويبدراه الالالمام

Great men may be compared to forches shining at long intervals, to guide the advance of science. They light up their time, either by discovering unexpected and fertile phenomena which open up new paths and reveal unknown horizons, or by generalizing acquired scientific facts and disclosing truths which their predecessors had not perceived.

Claude Bernard

